Gracious Moments:

Called by God to Serve Robert F. Holley, Paul E. Walters, 2004-08-31 Lutheran Voices provides quality accessible books by Lutheran authors that inform, teach, inspire, and renew. Grounded in Lutheran theology and practice, the books cover a wide range of subjects and themes of interest to members of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA) and the wider Christian community. Church councils and leadership groups will discover ten helpful devotional reflections and discussion starters for a three-year cycle focusing on the task of serving from a biblical and theological perspective. Insights from family systems theory provide a framework for the reflections. Through discussion of theory and by encountering and responding to real-life situations, participants will ponder aspects of what they are called to do together. God Is Not God's Name Rev. Steve Edington, 2018-08-06 I concede to the irony of writing a book with the words "beyond words" in its subtitle. If I were to truly go beyond words, the following pages would all be blank. I am hardly the first to deal with this conundrum; however, Jewish scholars tell us that in the aftermath of the Babylonian Exile of the sixth century BCE, the Jews ceased to use their name for God, Yahweh, because the divine name had come to be regarded as too sacred and holy to even be spoken. They had to come up with other ways to identify that which they regarded as ultimately sacred and holy. I can relate. Tides That Turn Jamal Cadourna, 2017-06-24 Based in Downtown Detroit, two unlikely characters forge an unforgettable friendship that sparks change and hope deep within their hearts, ultimately changing their lives in remarkable ways. Matthew Stance is a dispirited, lonely soul wandering the earth simply because his heart still beats and his blood still flows. All he wants is to feel something again, to be his once vibrant, energetic self. But heartache and loneliness are the only entities filling his life. The more Matthew tries to change for positivity, the deeper he sinks into depression. Charles is a tenacious, homeless man who fights to stay alive. When he's not rummaging for food and a good place to sleep, he's reminiscing about his deceased wife, Elizabeth, and how his life once was. Somewhere amid his shattered dreams resides a glimmer of faith, waiting to be rekindled. And then a random bench near the sparkling Detroit River draws these two opposites together. What starts off as a fiery encounter quickly transforms into a beautiful friendship. A friendship that finally inspires Matthew and Charles to strive for the changes and lives they desire. Dominicana, 1901 The Congregational Quarterly, 1927 Includes critical reviews. Who One Is J.G. Hart, 2009-04-21 If I am asked in the framework of Book 1, "Who are you?" I might say, "I don't know who I am in the world." I am. Nevertheless, there is a sense in which I always know what I refers to and can never not know, even if I have become, e.g., amnesiac. Yet in Book 2, "Who are you?" has other senses of oneself in mind than the non-sortal myself. For example, it might be the pragmatic context as in a bureaucratic setting, but "Who are you?" or "Who am I?" might be more anguished and be rendered by "What sort of person are you?" or "What sort am I?" Such a question often surfaces in the face of a limit situation, such as one's death or in the wake of a shameful deed, where we are compelled to find our centers, what we also will call Existenz. Existenz here refers to the center of the person. In the face of the limit situation, one is called upon to act unconditionally in the determination of oneself and one's being in the world In this Book 2 we discuss chiefly one's normative personal moral identity which stands in contrast to the transcendental I where one's non-sortal unique identity is given from the start This moral identity requires a unique self-determination and normative self-constitution which may be thought of with the help of the metaphor of vocation We will see that it has especial ties to one's Existenz as well as to love This Book 2 claims that the moral personal ideal sense of who one is is linked to the transcendental who through a notion of entelechy The person strives to embody the I-ness that one both ineluctably is and which however points to who one is not yet and who one ought to be The final two chapters tell a philosophical theological likely story of a basic theme of Plotinus We must learn to honor ourselves because of our honorable kinship and lineage
