GRADING EXERCISES

1. The first exercise is a reading comprehension exercise. It consists of a short text about Kafka's life and work, followed by several questions. The questions are designed to test the student's understanding of the text and their ability to identify key information.

2. The second exercise is a writing exercise. It asks the student to write a short paragraph about Kafka's most famous work, The Metamorphosis. The student is encouraged to use their own words and to provide specific examples from the text to support their analysis.

3. The third exercise is a grammar exercise. It focuses on the use of the subjunctive mood, which is a key feature of Kafka's writing. The student is given several sentences and asked to identify the subjunctive mood and explain its function in each sentence.

4. The fourth exercise is a translation exercise. It asks the student to translate a short passage from Kafka's The Trial from German to English. This exercise is designed to test the student's understanding of the text and their ability to translate complex sentences accurately.

5. The fifth exercise is a research exercise. It asks the student to research the historical and cultural context of Kafka's writing. The student is encouraged to explore the impact of the Austro-Hungarian Empire and the rise of Nazism on Kafka's work.
