The happy relationship between development and gender Zubeda Issa Mohammed, 2014-09-04 Essay from the year 2013 in the subject Gender Studies grade B Monash University South Africa Campus Monash University course International Studies language English abstract Gender inequality implies to the unequal treatment of a person based on their gender This concept arises from the differences in social constructed gender roles within the society Gender inequality has been one of the social concerns during the world history of development In today's world however every individuals and organizations are aware that without the predication of women the development process will not be as effective and sustainable Therefore many organizations as well as institutions have debated on the issues concerning gender and development and have made significant improvement to make development gender equitable For instance the United Nations General Assembly adopted the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women CEDAW in 1979 which generally describes the several agendas for national actions to end discrimination against women whether be at home or at workplaces United Nations 2009 The introduction of policies procedures and guidelines concerning gender equality has improved the rights and statuses of women Hence the gender gap has been decreasing each year due to effective development processes which integrates women empower them and give them access to join leadership positions in both the economic and political sphere This piece of writing aims to examine how the development processes reinforces gender equality in terms of the decreasing feminization of poverty the inclusion of women in the development processes and the differences within symbolic dimensions of gender since gender is particularly referred as the socially constructed roles behaviours and characteristics that a certain society regard as appropriate for women and men Gender and Development Hazel Reeves, Sally Baden, 2000

Aspiration for health - How can a focus on gender bring change in Southern Sudan Birgit Noack, 2004-02-24
Essay from the year 2003 in the subject Health Miscellaneous grade A 1 0 University of London Institute of Education course Basisgesundheitswesen in Entwicklungslaendern language English abstract Concurrently the profound gender inequity of the world s resource distribution a key determinant of health contiues Women are half the world s population yet they do two thirds of the world s work earn one tenth of the world s income and own less than one hundredth of the world s property UN 1985 337 This is true particularly in low income countries where the majority of girls and women are deprived of adequate health care education and decision making power leading to illiteracy malnutrition abuse chronic illness and premature death The World Bank 1994 UN 2000 Current news headlines echo this problem African women are 175 times more likely to die in childbirth and pregnancy than Westerners are BBC news 20 October 2003 Sudan a country marked by extreme poverty due to chronic civil war compounded by natural disasters also reflects these gender inequities The few statistics available show a lower primary education enrolment ratio for girls 41 9 a high maternal mortality ratio of 1500 per 100 000 live births and only 10% of parliament seats are taken up by women UN 2003 6 The denial of women s equity and health rights has profound consequences upon the health development and survival of children Research across the developing world indicates that after maternal death more than 95% of infants died within one year with a girl child having an even less chance of survival than a boy The World Bank 1994 Winikoff 1988 Clearly girls and women need to be the focus of all PHC initiatives if public health is to be enhanced Focussing upon women in order to improve health is not a recent notion but has been promoted since the UN sponsored Women s Decade in 1976 85 Moser 1993 Thus the question arises why only minor success appear to be noticeable and how this conceptual framework can be applied into the context of a complex emergency like in Sudan Therefore this essay will firstly outline the evolution of a gender approach towards health and development elucidating its underlying principles objectives and achievements It will briefly explicate the socio economic and cultural context of a Dinka community in Southern Sudan through a gender lens and critically reflect upon PHC programmes with Gender planning is not an end in itself but a means by which women through a process of empowerment can emancipate themselves. Ultimately its success depends on the capacity of women's organizations to confront subordination and create successful alliances which will provide constructive support in negotiating women's needs at the level of household, civil society, the state and the global system. Gender Planning and Development provides an introduction to an issue of primary importance and constant debate. It will be essential reading for academics, practitioners, undergraduates and trainees in anthropology, development studies, women's studies and social policy. Revised English Grammar ...
