Graywolf Annual Ten Changing Community:

The Graywolf Annual Ten Scott Walker, 1993 For nearly all of human history our notion of community was centered on the family tribe and or village The centrality of that notion is at the core of our values The 20th century brought air travel a revolution in communications the internationalization of culture and business the growth of an international language all in all a complete overturning of our historic understanding of community As a result we now have to think about the many different levels and many new faces of community Our families are nuclear extended and broken few of us live in one place our entire lives and most of our cities towns and regions change beyond recognition every few years The concept of the nation state itself is breaking down and people are more closely identifying with biogeographical religious or ethnic communities Incorporating essays from a diverse range of sources such as Parabola Chronicles A Magazine of American Culture the New Yorker and The Well a national computerized bulletin board Changing Community examines the ways that our ideas of community are evolving Community Organizing and Community Building for Health Meredith Minkler, 1997 An important contribution to expanding the community organizing knowledge and skills base of students and practitioners in public health health education social work and related disciplines Dr Nicholas Freudenberg Professor of Community Health Education Hunter College CUNY Democracy Online Peter M. Shane, 2004-07-15 Taking a multidisciplinary approach that they identify as a cyber realist research agenda the contributors to this volume examine the prospects for electronic democracy in terms of its form and practice while avoiding the pitfall of treating the benefits of electronic democracy as being self evident The debates question what electronic democracy needs to accomplish in order to revitalize democracy and what the current state of electronic democracy can teach us about the challenges and opportunities for implementing democratic technology initiatives The Graywolf Annual, 1993 Prime Time Animation Carol Stabile, 2013-09-13 In September 1960 a television show emerged from the mists of prehistoric time to take its place as the mother of all animated sitcoms The Flintstones spawned dozens of imitations just as two decades later The Simpsons sparked a renaissance of primetime animation This fascinating book explores the landscape of television animation from Bedrock to Springfield and beyond The contributors critically examine the key issues and questions including How do we explain the animation explosion of the 1960s Why did it take nearly twenty years following the cancellation of The Flintstones for animation to find its feet again as primetime fare In addressing these questions as well as many others essays examine the relation between earlier made for cinema animated production such as the Warner Looney Toons shorts and television based animation the role of animation in the economies of broadcast and cable television and the links between animation production and brand image Contributors also examine specific programmes like The Powerpuff Girls Daria Ren and Stimpy and South Park from the perspective of fans exploring fan cybercommunities investigating how ideas of class and taste apply to recent TV animation and addressing themes such as irony alienation and representations of the family The Virtual Community, revised edition Howard
