The woman's face is lit up, and her eyes are closed in a state of awe or joy. Her hair is dark and pulled back. The overall scene is one of spiritual or emotional transformation.

Medieval Holy Women and the Desire for Death Jessica Barr,2026-02-15
Medieval Holy Women and the Desire for Death investigates the tension between death as necessary for bringing about union with God and as the end of life on earth For medieval Christians only death could offer complete union with God For medieval women in particular death was figured as a desirable end to their embodied lives at least this is the story told by the clergymen who typically wrote their biographies Medieval Holy Women and the Desire for Death questions this assumption and studies visionary narratives treatises and spiritual reflections by and about medieval Christian women from the thirteenth through the fifteenth centuries to reveal how these women understood their own deaths and how their depictions conformed to or departed from the stories told about them Rather than focusing on externalities like rituals revenants or miracles Jessica Barr instead tackles the desire for death from the inside seeking to elucidate the ways in which medieval people anticipated or experienced biological death on a personal level In narrating their spiritual lives within the framework of deeply held Christian beliefs these medieval women mystics illustrate how theology and experience converge and not infrequently diverge
