Fictional Diaries:

Diaries Real and Fictional in Twentieth-Century French Writing Sam Ferguson, 2018-03-09 This volume is the first study of the diary in French writing across the twentieth century as a genre which includes both fictional and non-fictional works. From the 1880s it became apparent to writers in France that their diaries, a supposedly private form of writing, would probably come to be published, strongly affecting the way their readers viewed their other published works and their very persona as an author. More than any other, André Gide embraced the literary potential of the diary; the first part of this book follows his experimentation with the diary in the fictional works Les Cahiers d'André Walter (1891) and Paludes (1895) in his diary of the composition of his great novel Le Journal des faux monnayeurs (1926) and in his monumental Journal (1889-1939). The second part follows developments in diary writing after the Second World War, inflected by radical changes in attitudes towards the writing subject. Raymond Queneau's works published under the pseudonym of Sally Mara (1947-1962) used the diary playfully at a time when the writing subject was condemned by the literary avant-garde. Roland Barthes's experiments with the diary (1977-1979) took it to the extremes of its formal possibilities at the point of a return of the writing subject. Annie Ernaux's published diaries (1993-2011) demonstrate the role of the diary in the modern field of life writing. Throughout the century, the diary has repeatedly been used to construct an oeuvre and an author, but also to call these fundamental literary concepts into question.

Women's Diaries as Narrative in the Nineteenth-Century Novel

Catherine Delafield, 2016-07-22 First published in 2009, this book investigates the cultural significance of nineteenth-century women's writing and reading practices. Beginning with an examination of non-fictional diaries and the practice of diary writing, it assesses the interaction between the fictional diary and other forms of literary production such as epistolary narrative, the periodical, the factual document, and sensation fiction. The discrepancies between the private diary and its use as a narrative device are explored through the writings of Frances Burney, Elizabeth Gaskell, Anne Brontë, Dinah Craik, Wilkie Collins, and Bram Stoker. It also considers women as writers, readers, and subjects, and demonstrates ways in which women could become performers of their own story through a narrative method which was authorized by their femininity and at the same time allowed them to challenge the myth of domestic womanhood. This book will be of interest to those studying 19th-century literature and women in literature.

Rooms with a View Giancarlo Lombardi, 2002 In tracing the individual struggles encountered by each single diarist, Lombardi presents, as a result of the juxtaposition of so many different texts, a wider portrayal of women's struggles across five decades and four different national cultures.

BOOK JACKET Diary Fiction H. Porter Abbott, 1984 H. Porter Abbott explores the role of the personal diary and its use as a literary strategy in a number of representative works in fiction. He asserts that the device of the diary can give a work a unique literary reflexivity: the diary not only tells the tale but directly influences its development. This book serves as a guide to the field of diary fiction and at the same time sheds new light on issues central to the study of narrative and autobiography.
