Heavy Traffic:

Heavy Traffic Analysis of Controlled Queueing and Communication Networks Harold Kushner, 2013-11-21 The aim of this book is the development of the heavy traffic approach to the modeling and analysis of queueing networks both controlled and uncontrolled and many applications to computer communications and manufacturing systems The methods exploit the multiscale structure of the physical problem to get approximating models that have the form of reflected diffusion processes either controlled or uncontrolled These approximating models have the basic structure of the original problem but are significantly simpler Much of inessential detail is eliminated or averaged out They greatly simplify analysis design and optimization and yield good approximations to problems that would otherwise be intractable under broad conditions Queueing type processes are ubiquitous occurrences in operations research and in communications and computer systems Indeed it is hard to avoid them in modern technology The subject is now about 100 years old and there is an enormous literature Impressive techniques many based on Markov chain and ergodic theory have been developed to handle a great variety of models A sampling of the numerous books includes 6 8 18 27 33 46 81 86 132 133 220 243 But the models of interest are growing fast in the face of the demands of new applications particularly in communications and computer systems Preservation Approaches for High-Traffic-Volume Roadways David G. Peshkin, 2011 Traffic World and Traffic Bulletin, 1924 Analysis of Communication Networks: Call Centres, Traffic and Performance David R. McDonald, Stephen Robert Edward Turner, 2000 This volume consists of the proceedings of the Workshop on Analysis and Simulation of Communication Networks held at The Fields Institute Toronto The workshop was divided into two main themes entitled Stability and Load Balancing of a Network of Call Centres and Traffic and Performance The call centre industry is large and fast growing In order to provide top notch customer service it needs good mathematical models The first part of the volume focuses on probabilistic issues involved in optimizing the performance of a call centre While this was the motivating application many of the papers are also applicable to more general distributed queueing networks The second part of the volume discusses the characterization of traffic streams and how to estimate their impact on the performance of a queueing system The performance of queues under worst case traffic flows or flows with long bursts is treated These studies are motivated by questions about buffer dimensioning and call admission control in ATM or IP networks This volume will serve researchers as a comprehensive state of the art reference source on developments in this rapidly expanding field Parliamentary Debates New Zealand.
