Four Graces:

A New System of Mythology Robert Mayo, 1812 West-Eastern Divan Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, 2019-10-15
In 1814 Johann Wolfgang von Goethe read the poems of the great fourteenth century Persian poet Hafiz in a newly published translation by Joseph von Hammer Purgstall. For Goethe the book was a revelation. He felt a deep connection with Hafiz and Persian poetic traditions and was immediately inspired to create his own West Eastern Divan as a lyrical conversation between the poetry and history of his native Germany and that of Persia. The resulting collection engages with the idea of the other and unearths lyrical connections between cultures. The West Eastern Divan is one of the world's great works of literature, an inspired masterpiece and a poetic linking of European and Persian traditions. This new bilingual edition expertly presents the wit, intelligence, humor, and technical mastery of the poetry in Goethe's Divan. In order to preserve the work's original power, Eric Ormsby has created this translation in clear contemporary prose rather than in rhymed verse, which tends to obscure the work's sharpness. This edition is also accompanied by explanatory notes of the verse in German and in English and a translation of Goethe's own commentary, the Notes and Essays for a Better Understanding of the West Eastern Divan. This edition not only brings this classic collection to English language readers but also, at a time of renewed Western unease about the other, to open up the rich cultural world of Islam.

The Brunonian Brown University, 1905 Culture Care Diversity and Universality Madeleine M. Leininger, Marilyn R. McFarland, 2006
With new research on diverse cultures, this new edition has been thoroughly updated. It offers an introduction to the Sunrise Enabler and the Ethnonursing Research Method, important tools in providing culturally congruent, competent, safe care in a multicultural environment.

Daesoon Jinrihoe in Modern Korea David W. Kim, 2020-08-24
East Asian nations shared a similar environment of modernisation in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. None had been colonised under Western imperialism, but all of them commonly became subjected to new authorities, whether directly or indirectly. This change of the political landscape also challenged religious communities, as many new religious movements (NRMs) emerged to satisfy the spiritual needs of local people in overcoming the hardship of transition. This book presents the unique case of a native Korean NRM which successfully survived, transformed, and was transmitted even into contemporary society. Among Donghak, later called Cheondogyo, Daejonggyo, and Wonbulgyo, the history of Daesoon Jinrihoe, derived from the Jeungsan movement, is explored here in the context of functionalism, even though the perspectives of religious philosophy and personal experiences are also regarded for the receptive and syncretic relationship with other groups. The book offers significant insight that conservative, nationalistic NRMs can still survive in a digital era rather than disappear after the death of their founders.
