Fragmented Memories and Screening Nostalgia for the Cultural Revolution Jing Meng, 2020-08-19 Fragmented Memories and Screening Nostalgia for the Cultural Revolution argues that films and TV dramas about the Cultural Revolution made after China's accession to the WTO in 2001 tend to represent personal memories in a markedly sentimental nostalgic and fragmented manner. This new trend is a significant departure from earlier films about the subject which are generally interpreted as national allegories not private expressions of grief, regret, or other personal feelings. With China entering a postsocialist era, the ideological conflation of socialism and global capitalism has generated enough cultural ambiguity to allow a space for the expression of personalized reminiscences of the past. By presenting these personal memories in effect alternative narratives to official history on screen, individuals now seem to have some agency in narrating and constructing history. At the same time, such autonomy can be easily undermined since the promotion of the sentiment of nostalgia is often subjected to commodification. Sentimental treatments of the past may simply be a marketing strategy. Underplaying political issues is also a safer way for films and TV dramas to secure public release in mainland China. Meng concludes that the new mode of representing the past is shaped by the current sociopolitical conditions; these personal memories and micro narratives can be understood as the defining ways of remembering in China's postsocialist era. Fragmented Memories and Screening Nostalgia for the Cultural Revolution takes a comprehensive look at contemporary screen depictions of the Cultural Revolution. The book convincingly ties close readings of the works analysed with broader social and cultural phenomena that already are hot topics of study and debate, offering something original while also being closely engaged with existing scholarship. Jason McGrath, University of Minnesota. Breaking through the tired dichotomy between personal and collective narratives: individual memory and grand history, this refreshing book sheds much light on film memories of the Cultural Revolution in the post-socialist millennium. In a limpid and engaging style, Jing Meng probes memory's nostalgia and imbrication with the collective destiny and critiques the personal focus aligned with neoliberal economy and commodification. Ban Wang, Stanford University. The Tapestry of Memory: Unraveling the Threads of the Mind Lindsey Delacour, 2025-09-19 The Tapestry of Memory is not merely a book; it is a scientifically grounded exploration of memory's intricate mechanisms and a guide to optimizing cognitive function. Memory Fragmentation from Below and Beyond the State Anne Bazin,Emmanuelle Hébert,Valérie Rosoux,Eric Sangar,2023-05-22 This volume suggests a model of collective memory that distinguishes between two conceptual logics of memory fragmentation vertical fragmentation and horizontal fragmentation It offers a series of case studies of conflict and post conflict collective memory shedding light on the ways various actors participate in the production dissemination and contestation of memory discourses With attention to the characteristics of both vertical and horizontal memory fragmentation the book addresses the plurality of diverging and often conflicting memory discourses that are produced within the public sphere of a given community It analyzes the juxtaposition tensions and interactions between narratives produced beyond or below the central state often transcending national boundaries The book is structured according to the type of actors involved in a memory fragmentation process It explores how states have been trying to produce and impose memory discourses on civil societies sometimes even against the experiences of their own citizens and how such efforts as well as backlash from actors below and beyond the state have led to horizontal and vertical memory fragmentation Furthermore it considers the attempts by states representatives to reassert control of national memory discourses and the subsequent resistances they face As such this volume will appeal to sociology and political science scholars interested in memory studies in post conflict societies

The Fragmentary Poetic Sandro Jung, 2009 The Fragmentary Poetic is the first study of the mode of the fragmentary eighteenth century poetry Revisiting traditional literary historiography it offers a fresh account of the Pindaric impulse a mode informing deliberate fragmentation Its amphibian nature accommodates its transgeneric use in genres as varied as the ode and the epic deploying the ruin as an emblem of its deliberate resistance to closure or the sublime to indicate rupture The study discusses the ode the long poem imitations of Spenser Macpherson s reinventions of the epic and poems engaging with memory and ruin Poets variously utilized the fragmentary as a mode reflecting human fallibility but also paradoxically as evidence for original completeness and authenticity Detailed discussions of poems include works ranging from Thomson and Young to Macpherson Charlotte Smith and Wordsworth Scholars of both eighteenth century and Romantic period poetry will find this book a useful guide to the generic complexity of eighteenth century poetry This account of the polymorphous nature of the fragment and definitional and formal fluidity enables scholars to rethink eighteenth century form and to appreciate a pervasive mode that found its most varying expression in the poetry of the period Sandro Jung is the James Thomson Fellow in Eighteenth and Nineteenth Century Literature and Culture at the University of Salford
