The Muslim Resurgence in Ghana Since 1950 Nathan Samwini,2006 This volume examines the place of Islam in Ghanaian society with particular attention to the role of the dominant orthodox Tijyniyya tradition and its relation to newer groups which have become increasingly prominent since 1950 These are characterized as part of a Muslim resurgence The two groups given particular attention are the Ahmadiyya Muslim Mission Amm and the Ahlus Sunna wal Jama a Nathan Samwini holds a doctoral degree in philosophy from the University of Birmingham UK and is ordained minister of the Methodist Church in Ghana

Old Age Poverty Among Rural Women in Ghana Martha Donkor,2026-01-01 Drawing on interviews with over 50 women in rural villages in Ghana this book analyzes the poverty of older rural and illiterate women in Ghana within the framework of the feminization of poverty The book demonstrates that alleged gains in gender equality are not universal even within the same country and that the feminization of poverty marginalizes certain groups in meta analyses that focus heavily on monetary indicators Specific issues explored include the conditions and processes that create poverty among older women the role illiteracy and rural living play in the creation of poverty women s experience and understanding of poverty and the effectiveness of government interventions to alleviate or end rural poverty in Ghana The author exposes a weakness in analyses of poverty that use income at the exclusion of personal and social characteristics arguing that economic forces do not operate in a vacuum and an analysis that prioritizes non monetary aspects of poverty is necessary to tease out its nuances This book will be of interest to scholars and researchers focusing on the intersections of gender work the economy poverty and rurality particularly in western Africa

Foundations for Local Governance Fumihiko Saito,2008-01-15 Successful reforms need coherent approaches in which a range of stakeholders are willing to share responsibilities and resources in order to achieve the ultimate outcome of poverty reduction in developing countries This book provides a framework to access intended outcomes generated by decentralization measures implemented in Asian and African countries It is based on comparative analyses of different experiences of decentralization measures in six developing countries

Ghana Deborah Pellow,Naomi Chazan,1986-07-14

No Condition Is Permanent Sara S. Berry,1993-09-15 No condition is permanent a popular West African slogan expresses Sara S Berry s theme the obstacles to African agrarian development never stay the same Her book explores the complex way African economy and society are tied to issues of land and labor offering a comparative study of agrarian change in four rural economies in sub Saharan Africa including two that experienced long periods of expanding peasant production for export southern Ghana and southwestern Nigeria a settler economy central Kenya and a rural labor reserve northeastern Zambia The resources available to African farmers have changed dramatically over the course of the twentieth century Berry asserts that the ways resources are acquired and used are shaped not only by the incorporation of a rural area into colonial later national and global political economies but also by conflicts over culture power and property within and beyond rural communities By tracing the various debates over rights to resources and their effects on agricultural production and farmers uses of income Berry presents agrarian change as a series of on going processes rather than a set of discrete successes and failures No Condition Is Permanent enriches the discussion of agrarian development by showing how multidisciplinary studies of local agrarian history can constructively contribute to development policy The book is a contribution both to African agrarian history and to debates over the role of agriculture in Africa s recent economic crises
