English Model Farm:

The English Model Farm Susanna Wade Martins, 2002 The English Model Farm Susanna Wade Martins, English Heritage, 2002 During the Agricultural Revolution the landowners of Britain constructed an enormous range of picturesque or classical buildings on their farms inspired by Enlightenment ideals These model farms a phenomenon unique to Britain are a significant yet largely undiscovered aspect of our heritage This book is richly illustrated with interior and exterior photographs most of them specially commissioned as well as plans paintings and historic photographs It examines the architecture and landscape context of the farmsteads themselves and considers the motives of the people who built them drawing on the first comprehensive national survey of model farms recently completed by English Heritage Georgian Model Farms John Martin Robinson, 1983 Custom and Commercialisation in English Rural Society J. P. Bowen, A. T. Brown, 2016-03-01 English rural society underwent fundamental changes between the thirteenth and eighteenth centuries with urbanization commercialization and industrialization producing new challenges and opportunities for inhabitants of rural communities However our understanding of this period has been shaped by the compartmentalization of history into medieval and early modern specialisms and by the debates surrounding the transition from feudalism to capitalism and landlord tenant relations Inspired by the classic works of Tawney and Postan this collection of essays examines their relevance to historians today distinguishing between their contrasting approaches to the pre industrial economy and exploring the development of agriculture and rural industry changes in land and property rights and competition over resources in the English countryside These case studies further highlight the regional diversity of medieval and early modern England by focusing on the mixed economies of south western western and northern England and the role of coastal and urban communities within the rural economy Custom was a contested set of rules based upon historical precedent which governed the behaviour of village communities and a key theme of Tawney's Agrarian Problem was the struggle between custom and competition This collection of essays reconsiders the role of custom in medieval and early modern England by arguing that it often facilitated the commercialization of rural society in this period rather than hindering it thereby offering an alternative to the landlord tenant approach Commercialization was often aided by custom because it enabled tenants to accumulate wealth and engage with market forces in ways that were previously impossible Although custom may have featured prominently in popular politics it was also frequently articulated to benefit the commercial and industrial interests of lords Instead of concentrating on a particular period or century Custom and Commercialization has an intentionally broad chronological span ranging from the thirteenth century through to the eighteenth exploring the interactions between custom and commercialisation at a key stage in the economic development of English rural society The contributors include James P Bowen John Broad A T Brown Christopher Dyer John Gaisford Tom Johnson David Rollison Simon Sandall Alexandra Sapoznik William D Shannon Sheila Sweetinburgh and Andy Wood English Houses 1300-1800 Matthew. H Johnson, 2014-06-11

Houses are more than a shelter from the elements they also offer an unparalleled insight into the beliefs ideas and experiences of the people who built and lived in them In this engaging book Matthew Johnson looks at the traditional houses that still exist throughout the English countryside and examines the lives of the ordinary people who once occupied them His wide ranging narrative takes in the medieval hall and the community it framed the rebuilding and improvement of houses in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries and the rise of the Georgian Order in both architecture and eighteenth century culture This passionate book is animated by the conviction that old houses are much more than just pretty tableaux of an idyllic unchanging rural England Vernacular houses are compared to their larger polite counterparts and English houses are placed in the wider context of the British Isles and the Atlantic world beyond The result is a dynamic compelling account of the development of houses in the English countryside and through this a portrait of changing patterns of social life from medieval to modern times Richly illustrated throughout with photographs and drawings this book will be of interest to anyone who wants to understand the significance of our built heritage and the historic landscape

The English Illustrated Magazine ,1887 “The” Pioneers and Progress of English Farming Rowland E. Prothero,1888 The Evolution of the English Farm Mabel Elizabeth Seebom,1927 English Farming Rowland Edmund Prothero (Baron Ernle),1922 Regions and Designed Landscapes in Georgian England Sarah Spooner,2015-06-26 Garden design evolved hugely during the Georgian period as symbols of wealth and stature the landed aristocracy had been using gardens for decades Yet during the eighteenth century society began to homogenise and the urban elite also started demanding landscapes that would reflect their positions The gardens of the aristocracy and the gentry were different in appearance use and meaning despite broad similarities in form Underlying this was the importance of place of the landscape itself and its raw material Contemporaries often referred to the need to consult the genius of the place when creating a new designed landscape as the place where the garden was located was critical in determining its appearance Genius loci soil type topography water supply all influenced landscape design in this period The approach taken in this book blends landscape and garden history to make new insights into landscape and design in the eighteenth century Spooner s own research presents little known sites alongside those which are more well known and explores the complexity of the story of landscape design in the Georgian period which is usually oversimplified and reduced to the story of a few great men Shelburne Farms Stud (Shelburne, Chittenden County, Vermont) of English Hackneys, Harness and Saddle Horses, Ponies and Trotters William Seward Webb,1893 The English Cyclopædia ,1868 English Farming, Past and Present Rowland Edmund Prothero (Baron Ernle),1927 Estate Landscapes : Design, Improvement and Power in the Post-medieval Landscape Jonathan Finch,Katherine Giles,2007 An exciting study of the social and landscape phenomena of the Estate Landscape In recent years the post medieval landscape has attracted new interest from archaeologists historians and geographers concerned to understand the development of the historic environment One of the key structuring elements within these landscapes from the sixteenth century until the aftermath of the Second World War was undoubtedly the landed estate. However, it was not until the late nineteenth century that any systematic attempt to quantify the presence of these estates was undertaken, prompted by the move to democratic reform and the persistent link between political power and landed wealth. Yet the importance of the landed estate in structuring power, social relationships, and both agricultural and industrial production was not limited to the UK. From the eighteenth century, the link between the UK estates and patterns of landholding and exploitation in the colonies became increasingly complex and recursive. This volume explores the relationships between the form and structure of British and Colonial estate landscapes, their agricultural management, and the political structures and social relationships they reproduced. The articles address themes as diverse as the creation and development of the agrarian landscape, improvement, ornamental landscapes and gardens, and estate architecture. Overall, it highlights the wealth and diversity of existing scholarship and suggests new directions for post-medieval archaeology in this dynamic area of research.
