A General Theory of Economic Development Sung-Hee Jwa,2017-06-30 This book makes the bold attempt at proposing a new general theory of economic development The main premise is that economic institutions and policies must embody economic discrimination if there is to be any chance of real economic development By economic discrimination the author means treating differences differently by selecting and supporting economic entities and behaviour that contribute positively to the economy The book identifies markets government and corporations as the holy trinity of economic development that is the three most important institutions that must work together via economic discrimination to steer the economy towards real transformative progress The book also warns against the current trend of economic egalitarianism or not treating differences differently because it destroys economic incentives and results in an array of economic problems including growth stagnation

The German Economy During the Nineteenth Century Toni Pierenkemper,Richard H. Tilly,2004 In the 19th Century economic growth was accompanied by large scale structural change known as industrialization which fundamentally affected western societies Even though industrialization is on the wane in some advanced economies and we are experiencing substantial structural changes again the causes and consequences of these changes are inextricably linked with earlier industrialization This means that understanding 19th Century industrialization helps us understand problems of contemporary economic growth There is no recent study on economic developments in 19th Century Germany So this concise volume written specifically with students of German and economic history in mind will prove to be most valuable not least because of its wealth of statistical data
