In the Storms of Transformation Ulf Brunnbauer, Philipp Ther, Piotr Filipkowski, Andrew Hodges, Stefano Petrunaro, Peter Wegenschimmel, 2024-12-16 In the 1990s states in what would become the eastern edge of the European Union transformed their political systems and economies leaving state socialism behind for liberal democracies and free markets In the ensuing decades two shipyards that were once the pride of their cities in Gdynia Poland and Pula Croatia went bankrupt unable to withstand global competition Through an interdisciplinary study of these two shipyards In the Storms of Transformation brings together a team of researchers to re evaluate the shift from state socialism to market capitalism and offer a new periodization With perspectives from social anthropology sociology and business history the book argues that this transformation began with the oil crisis of the early 1970s and ended with EU accession in 2004 in Poland and in 2013 in Croatia highlighting the EU competition laws and global competition that pushed the shipyards into bankruptcy and diminishing the role of the revolutions of 1989 In the Storms of Transformation bridges local labour history with global market forces going beyond prevalent narratives of loss and nostalgia or successful neoliberal change to offer a novel and nuanced reading of post communist transformation and its contradictions

The Transformation of Governance in the European Union Rainer Eising, BEATE KOHLER-KOCH, 2003-09-02 The book presents a theoretically informed typology of modes of governance which is tested in a careful selection of comparative country and policy studies At the core is the question whether the European Union is destined to a network type of governance and whether and how this type of governance will be translated into the member states The individual chapters subject the governing patterns at European and national level to empirical scrutiny Drawing on recent research findings in different issue areas including monetary union social affairs environment genetic engineering and market liberalisation in transport banking energy professional services the contributions highlight the impact of the European activities on policy making process in the member states

China-EU Relations in a New Era of Global Transformation Li Xing, 2021-06-14 This book draws together leading experts to examine the key issues in China EU relations China EU relations are increasingly complex and affected by a number of inter related factors such as China s global rise growing China US strategic competition US global withdrawal the transatlantic split the China Russia comprehensive alliance and Brexit The book highlights the struggles of both China and the EU to look for a dynamic and durable mode of engagement in an attempt to achieve the balance between opportunities and challenges and between partnership and rivalry International contributors explore how to conceptualise China EU relations and identify their differences and commonalities such as the EU s role in China s foreign policy process and how the EU works with China as a strategic partner Finally it analyses China's and the EU's perceptions of their own present and future roles Shedding light on the perspectives of understanding and change in China EU relations and its impact on multilateralism it will appeal to researchers and professionals working in International Relations International Political Economy and area studies who are interested in the rise of emerging powers and the changing world order

Transformation and Crisis in Central and Eastern Europe Bruno Dallago, Steven Rosefielde, 2016-05-05 The global financial crisis has provided an important opportunity to revisit debates about post socialist transition and the relative success of different reform paths Post communist Central and Eastern Europe CEECs in particular show resilience in the wake of the international crisis with a diverse range of economic transformations Transformation and Crisis in Central and Eastern Europe offers an in depth analysis of a diverse range of countries including Poland Hungary Russia Ukraine Czech Republic and Slovakia This volume assesses each country's institutional transformations geopolitical policies and local adaptations that have led them down divergent post communist paths Chapters take the reader systematically through the evolution of former communist national economic systems before ending with lessons and conclusions for the future

Subsequent chapters demonstrate that economic performance crucially depends on achieving a sustainable balance between sound institutional design and policies on one hand and localization on the other. This new volume from a prestigious group of academics offers a fascinating and timely study which will be of interest to all scholars and policy makers with an interest in European Economics, Russian and East European Studies, Transition Economies, Political Economy and the post 2008 world more generally.

Enlarged EU - Enlarged Neighbourhood Nicolas Hayoz, Leszek Jesień, Wim Meurs (van), 2005. Since May 2004 the European Union borders countries that have not yet accomplished their transformation process or are still struggling for stability. These countries are now the neighbours of the European Union but are they also candidates for accession? The European Neighbourhood policy is a policy that explicitly excludes the possibility of accession. However, possible future membership is the strongest implicit argument for pushing the new neighbours towards reform. How does the European Union deal with its new neighbours and how do they deal with the European Union? What plans and programs of cooperation exist? What prospects and risks does the new neighbourhood imply? Are there further attempts of cooperation and European integration besides these at the EU level? The authors try to answer these questions by providing a critical perspective of the EU policy, regional overviews and country reports from Eastern and South Eastern Europe.

The European Commission and the Transformation of EU Borders Valentina Kostadinova, 2016-12-22. This book examines the contribution of the European Commission to the process of transformation of EU borders. Migration issues have been at the centre of EU political debates in recent years. From national controversies sparked by the economic difficulties in the aftermath of the 2008 economic downturn to EU wide problems caused by the record number of asylum seekers looking for a refuge in the Union. Simultaneously the EU migration regime has undergone a profound change since the 1980s as a result of the developments in the integration process. Inevitably this has impacted borders transforming their nature and functions. The author looks at four key EU policy areas which in recent decades have substantially altered the EU migration regime: the European Neighbourhood Policy, social policy, border controls and free movement of people. Based on a variety of Commission documents the analysis focuses on the different borders that have been transformed, their altered nature and functions and the specific impact of the European Commission on to these processes.

The Transformation of Citizenship in the European Union Jo Shaw, 2007-09-06. This book examines the electoral rights granted to those who do not have the nationality of the state in which they reside within the European Union and its Member States. It looks at the rights of EU citizens to vote and stand in European Parliament elections and local elections wherever they live in the EU and at cases where Member States of the Union also choose to grant electoral rights to other non nationals from countries outside the EU. The EU's electoral rights are among the most important rights first granted to EU citizens by the EU Treaties in the 1990s. Putting these rights into their broader context the book provides important insights into the development of the EU now that the Constitutional Treaty has been rejected in the referendums in France and the Netherlands and into issues which are still sensitive for national sovereignty such as immigration nationality and naturalization

Transformation Of The European Union, The: The Impact Of Climate Change In European Policies Xira Ruiz-campillo,2020-06-24 The EU has undergone a deep transformation in the last 25 years The goals adopted by the EU at the international level in climate negotiations have led to the internal adoption of goals by the EU member states The book examines the changes experienced by the European Union that have gone on in parallel to its leadership in climate negotiations since 1992 and analyses whether combating climate change has contributed to the transformation of European policies The book takes an in depth look at the greenhouse gases GHG emissions reduction goals adopted by European states the leadership of the EU in climate negotiations the creation of the Energy Union the commitment to a model of sustainable development the promotion of a circular economy and the enhancement of cities as relevant actors in the reduction of emissions and boosting of sound environmental practices

Transforming the European Nation-State Kjell Goldmann,2001-10-19 This book introduces and maps the complex interaction between internationalization nation state and democracy to provide a new basis for understanding political change in contemporary Europe The book introduces the concept of internationalization considers how it relates to its near synonymy globalization and explains the dynamics of the internationalization process assesses the impact and implications for nation states national identities and political cultures and addresses the problem of making internationalized democracy work at national and European levels Throughout the text theoretical ideas and concepts are accessibly introduced and illustrated with a wide range of empirical examples from across Europe

Transformation of the European Border Regime Johannes Wiedemann,2011-07 Seminar paper from the year 2011 in the subject Politics International Politics Topic European Union grade 1 0 University of Southern Denmark Department of Border Region Studies course European Border Region Development language English abstract The last decade saw the establishment of an European Union agency FRONTEX which was made in charge of the common border security polity established by the Schengen aquis which abolished all internal borders for the free movement of persons Taking this development and its results under scrutiny this paper will try to give an answer to the following research question How does the actual application of the Schengen aquis by institutionalizing it in an agency FRONTEX affect or transform the border regimes of Member States in particular and the European Union in general The methodology will consist of an analysis of the legal and deriving organizational design of the agency itself and as well in describing the operational design of a distinctive FRONTEX deployment Taking a closer look at the FRONTEX operations HERA I II and III in particular shall help to define the characteristics and implications of its results in promulgating a paradigm which points out to the result the ongoing transformation of the European border security regime While being aware of the incentives to create agencies lie in their supposed apolitical nature and ability to maintain policy continuity which might also apply for the establishment of FRONTEX as an European Union agency the notorious and critical acclaim this institution faces in the media is another incentive to take as a first step of the analysis a closer look at the historic and legal roots of the agency its impact on the European border regime so far This will be followed by a description of the organization of FRONTEX and how the agency operates in the operations HERA I II and III in the years 2006 and 2007 A paradigm will be drawn which an answer on if and how
