A Social History of Twentieth- Century Europe Béla Tomka,2013 A Social History of Twentieth Century Europe offers a systematic overview on major aspects of social life including population family and households social inequalities and mobility the welfare state work consumption and leisure social cleavages in politics urbanization as well as education religion and culture It also addresses major debates and diverging interpretations of historical and social research regarding the history of European societies in the past one hundred years Organized in ten thematic chapters this book takes an interdisciplinary approach making use of the methods and results of not only history but also sociology demography economics and political science B la Tomka presents both the diversity and the commonalities of European societies looking not just to Western European countries but Eastern Central and Southern European countries as well A perfect introduction for all students of European history The

Party's Over Alfred C. Mierzejewski, 2020-11-13 The Party's Over: The End of the Welfare State Boom in Western Europe provides the first comprehensive account of the West German Pension Reform Law 1972 Rentenreformgesetz 1972 RRG 1972 which marked the end of the period of rapid welfare state growth in Western Europe after World War II Alfred C. Mierzejewski uses extensive archival research to explore how the law was conceived how it was modified and expanded during parliamentary debate and the effects that it had after it was enacted Mierzejewski puts the reform into Western European context by comparing it with British and French efforts to develop their public pension systems since the seventeenth century In doing so The Party's Over highlights both the general trends in post World War II Western European welfare state development as well as the differences in how these three countries organized and managed their pension plans Mierzejewski underscores the political risk that endangers old age pensions delivered by government mandated pay as you go systems and demonstrates how policy matters revealing how the end of the West European welfare state boom is relevant and significant for both workers and retirees today Family, Kinship and State in Contemporary Europe Hannes

Grandits, Patrick Heady, Peter P. Schweitzer, Martin Kohli, 2010 In this volume the authors examine the history of the family during the twentieth century in the context of political struggles over the welfare state gender roles and parental authority They ask how far political measures have contributed to changes in family life and whether these should be understood as a weakening or as a redefinition of traditional kinship roles A Social and Economic History of Twentieth-century Europe Gerold Ambrosius, William H. Hubbard, 1989 In the decades since the end of the Second World War the unification of Europe has been a subject of enormous importance and tension to politicians citizens and scholars Yet lacking the basic demographic economic and social data that would provide a fuller picture of what this integration will involve the debate has produced more heat than light This book the most comprehensive single volume source of information available on the social and economic transformations in Europe over the past hundred years fills that critical gap in our knowledge In its pages we find examinations of population trends including growth mortality national and international migration and fertility social structures work income lifestyle consumer patterns welfare programs and economic structures agriculture industry and services and an integrative overview of changes in both the organization of the economy and the role of the state in economic management Paying particular attention to the period since 1950 the authors summarize the developmental paths of the four socioeconomic regions of Europe The data and analyses provided here make this book an invaluable resource to professionals and scholars in a wide range of fields from history politics and economics to journalism and international business A
