First Peoples:

Indigenous Peoples in the International Arena Elsa Stamatopoulou, 2024-07-12 This book provides a definitive account of the creation and rise of the international Indigenous Peoples movement In the late 1970s motivated by their dire situation and local struggles and inspired by worldwide movements for social justice and decolonization including the American civil rights movement Indigenous Peoples around the world got together and began to organize at the international level Although each defined itself by its relation to a unique land culture and often language Indigenous Peoples from around the world made an extraordinary leap using a common conceptual vocabulary and addressing international bodies that until then had barely recognized their existence At the intersection of politics law and culture this book documents the visionary emergence of the international Indigenous movement detailing its challenges and achievements including the historic recognition of Indigenous rights through the adoption of the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples in 2007 The winning by Indigenous Peoples of an unprecedented kind and degree of international participation especially at the United Nations an institution centered on states meant overcoming enormous institutional and political resistance The book shows how this participation became an increasingly assertive self expression and even an exercise of self determination by which Indigenous Peoples could both benefit from and contribute to the international community overall now crucially by sharing their knowledge about climate change their approaches to development and well being and their struggles against the impact of extractive industries on their lands and resources Written by the former Chief of the Secretariat of the United Nations Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues this book will be of interest to researchers teachers students advocates practitioners and others with interests in Indigenous legal and political issues

Indigenous Peoples and Poverty Robyn Eversole, John-Andrew McNeish, Alberto D. Cimadamore, 2013-07-04 This book brings together two of today's leading concerns in development policy the urgent need to prioritize poverty reduction and the particular circumstances of indigenous peoples in both developing and industrialized countries The contributors analyse patterns of indigenous disadvantage worldwide the centrality of the right to self determination and indigenous people's own diverse perspectives on development Several fundamental and difficult questions are explored including the right balance to be struck between autonomy and participation and the tension between a new wave of assimilationism in the guise of pro poor and inclusionary development policies and the fact that such policies may in fact provide new spaces for indigenous peoples to advance their demands In this regard one overall conclusion that emerges is that both differences and commonalities must be recognised in any realistic study of indigenous poverty

Indigenous Legal Judgments Nicole Watson, Heather Douglas, 2021-06-27 This book is a collection of key legal decisions affecting Indigenous Australians which have been re imagined so as to be inclusive of Indigenous people's stories historical experience perspectives and worldviews In this groundbreaking work Indigenous and non Indigenous scholars have collaborated to rewrite 16 key decisions Spanning from 1889 to 2017 the judgments reflect the trajectory of Indigenous people's engagements with Australian law. The collection includes decisions that laid the foundation for the wrongful application of terra nullius and the long disavowal of native title. Contributors have also challenged narrow judicial interpretations of native title which have denied recognition to Indigenous people who suffered the prolonged impacts of dispossession. Exciting new voices have reclaimed Australian law to deliver justice to the Stolen Generations and to families who have experienced institutional and police racism. Contributors have shown how judicial officers can use their power to challenge systemic racism and tell the stories of Indigenous people who have been dehumanised by the criminal justice system. The new judgments are characterised by intersectional perspectives which draw on postcolonial critical race and whiteness theories. Several scholars have chosen to operate within the parameters of legal doctrine. Some have imagined new truth telling forums highlighting the strength and creative resistance of Indigenous people to oppression and exclusion. Others have rejected the possibility that the legal system which has been integral to settler colonialism can ever deliver meaningful justice to Indigenous people. Forests and Indigenous Peoples of Asia TEEKA BHATIARAI, MARCUS COLCHESTER, DR WALTER FERNANDES, PHILIP GAIN, KOMEOK JOE, PRASERT TRAKANSUPHALON, RAJA DEVASISH ROY, 1999-06-01. For indigenous peoples in Asia as in many parts of the world forests have traditionally represented their ancestral lands and their livelihoods. Yet in recent years the region has lost more than half of its forests. Forests and Indigenous Peoples of Asia shows how forest dwellers' survival is increasingly threatened due to economic and cultural impoverishment, human rights abuses, land loss and a rapid integration into the global marketplace. While the Report takes a broad approach to these themes throughout Asia it focuses on five states: Bangladesh, India, Malaysia, Nepal and Thailand. It describes how logging, mining and hydropower schemes are displacing more and more indigenous peoples with settlers and commercial plantations occupying their lands. The authors demonstrate that in the face of such opposition indigenous peoples have been far from passive. Forests and Indigenous Peoples of Asia discusses indigenous peoples' growing mobilization against this environmental destruction, the loss of their lands and their livelihoods. The Report also analyses recent changes in governmental policy towards indigenous peoples and forest dwellers along with an accessible overview of relevant international agreements on these issues. The Report concludes with a set of recommendations which are aimed at safeguarding and promoting indigenous peoples' rights in the region.

Indigenous Peoples' Rights in Constitutions Assessment Tool Amanda Cats-Baril, 2020-08-09. The Indigenous Peoples Rights in Constitutions Assessment Tool helps users to analyse a constitution from the perspective of indigenous peoples' rights. Using a series of questions, short explanations and example provisions from constitutions around the world, the Assessment Tool guides its users through the text of a constitution and allows for systematic analysis of the language and provisions of a constitutional text to assess how robustly indigenous peoples' rights are reflected in it A constitution articulates a vision that reflects a state s values and history as well as its aspirational objectives for the future As the supreme law of a state the constitution defines its structure and institutions distributes political power and recognizes and protects fundamental rights critically determining the relationship between citizens and governments Embedding in a constitution recognition of and rights based protections for specific groups such as indigenous peoples can give these groups and their rights enhanced protection This can be furthered by providing for specialized institutions and processes to deepen the realization of those rights in practice

Indigenous Peoples, Marine Space and Resources, and International Law Endalew Lijalem Enyew,2024-02-26 This book addresses the rights of indigenous peoples to marine space and associated marine resources under international law Examining the rights of indigenous peoples relating to marine space and marine resources both in international human rights law and the law of the sea the book provides an in depth critical analysis of the existing legal framework whilst identifying the gaps and possible further mechanisms for recognizing the rights of indigenous peoples to marine space The book addresses three main issues 1 the extent to which international law recognizes and protects the rights of indigenous peoples in relation to marine space and marine resources 2 if and how the law of the sea and international human rights law pertaining to the rights of indigenous peoples to marine space and marine resources interact 3 whether and to what extent the law of the sea regime limits the capacity of coastal States to recognize and implement the rights of indigenous peoples relating to marine space and resources In response and in a context where indigenous marine rights are under increasing threat the book develops an important critical theoretical and methodological approach which moves beyond the current doctrinal focus of much existing work in this area The book will appeal to academics researchers and practitioners in the areas of indigenous peoples and the law international law the law of the sea and human rights
