Feud Warner Jennifer,2016-05-16 Back in the 1970s on the poverty stricken streets of the Bronx New York amongst the African American community there was a rise in the popularity of the block party People like the Ghetto Brothers would plug their amps between the lamp posts These parties would often have a DJ playing soul or funk music where the percussive break in the songs would be isolated a common feature of Jamaican dub music and a technique introduced by the Caribbean immigrants in the area including DJ Kool Herc often credited as one of the founding fathers of hip hop as well as Afrika Bambaataa and the music collective Zulu Nation Coupled with the advent of cheaper more accessible music editing and sampling equipment there was an emergence of a new kind of sound and a vocal called rapping or emceeing The East Coast remained the forefront of the Hip Hop movement throughout the 80s and the early 90s with legends such as A Tribe Called Quest Run DMC LL Cool J Salt and Pepa to name a few emerging from the New York scene In the early 90s what started as an outlet for the youth of the impoverished Bronx had transformed in what was known as the Golden Age of Hip Hop to shorter more radio friendly tracks which were at the same time innovative and challenging the limits Often the tracks featured eclectic sampling think of De La Soul and explored themes of afrocentrism identity Public Enemy had directly challenging aggressive lyrics and served to give the black community a voice due to the relatability of the lyrical content and how mainstream it was becoming The term Golden Age was used to describe this period because of fresh new and innovative every release seemed to be However what started as a movement born out of social discontent and progression was soon manipulated into a tool for record companies utilizing conflict and controversy to make more money This is a history of a movement that changed the sound of music From 'Fuck Tha Police' (1988) to 'Alright' (2015) - Hip hop music and the representation of the relationship between black people and the police then and now Melissa Kern,2022-06-29 Seminar paper from the year 2020 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Culture and Applied Geography grade 1 0
