Becoming Parent Damien W. Riggs, 2007-01-01. Damien invites us to find different ways of responding to myths about lesbian and gay parenting. Damien shows us how myths and psychologists' responses to them function to uphold dominant values about parenting and families. He provides us with tools to take these myths apart and challenge the fears that drive many public and private discussions about our parenting. In this book, most importantly, he offers a language with which to change the conversation about lesbian and gay parenting. Damien, like most psychologists who write about and research lesbian and gay parenting, is concerned with creating a better world, but he asks us to pause and reflect on the strategies we use to bring about a better world and to question what exactly that world might look like. Clearly, there are still many lesbians and gay men whose fitness to parent is called into question, and some are likely to be helped by interventions that aim to counter myths and misconceptions about lesbian and gay parenting.

Gay Men Choosing Parenthood Gerald P. Mallon, 2004. Dismantling Glory presents the most personal and powerful words ever written about the horrors of battle by the very soldiers who put their lives on the line. Focusing on American and English poetry from World War I, World War II, and the Vietnam War, Lorrie Goldensohn, a poet and pacifist, affirms that by and large, twentieth-century war poetry is fundamentally antiwar. She examines the changing nature of the war lyric and takes on the literary thinking of two countries separated by their common language World War I poets such as Wilfred Owen emphasized the role of soldier as victim By World War II however English and American poets influenced by the leftist politics of W H Auden tended to indict the whole of society not just its leaders for militarism During the Vietnam War soldier poets accepted themselves as both victims and perpetrators of war s misdeeds writing a nontraditional more personally candid war poetry The book not only discusses the poetry of trench warfare but also shows how the lives of civilians women and children in particular entered a global war poetry dominated by air power invasion and occupation Goldensohn argues that World War II blurred the boundaries between battleground and home front thus bringing women and civilians into war discourse as never before She discusses the interplay of fascination and disapproval in the texts of twentieth century war and notes the way in which homage to war hero and victim contends with revulsion at war s horror and waste In addition to placing the war lyric in literary and historical context the book discusses in detail individual poets such as Wilfred Owen W H Auden Keith Douglas Randall Jarrell and a group of poets from the Vietnam War including W D Ehrhart Bruce Weigl Yusef Komunyakaa David Huddle and Doug Anderson Dismantling Glory is an original and compelling look at the way twentieth century war poetry posited new relations between masculinity and war changed and complicated the representation of war and expanded the scope of antiwar thinking

How It Feels to Have a Gay or Lesbian Parent Judith E. Snow, 2013-04-15 Sometimes I fantasize about having a magic wand How awesome it would be to wave it and completely eliminate prejudice hate and ignorance Just imagine what it would be like to live in a world like that How It Feels to Have a Gay or Lesbian Parent A Book by Kids for Kids of All Ages gives voice to the thoughts feelings and experiences of children adolescents and young adults who have a gay or lesbian parent In their own words they talk openly and candidly about how and when they learned of their parent s sexual orientation and the effect it had on them and their families Their stories echo themes of prejudice and harassment conflict and confusion adaptation and adjustment and hope for tolerance and a family that can exist in harmony Because it s an issue for other people it becomes an issue for me I m angry about the way it works against me The stories told in How It Feels to Have a Gay or Lesbian Parent not only reflect the day to day struggle of children with a GLBT parent they also reveal the pain inherent in high conflict divorce and child custody cases Children of gay lesbian parents ranging in age from seven to 31 recall the confusion and grief created when the disclosure of their parent s true sexual orientation ended a marriage and divided a family The straight parent s resentment can lead to angry remarks that intentionally or unintentionally disparage the gay lesbian parent and threaten the natural love and affection the child feels for both I guess the hardest part about having a gay dad is that no matter how okay you are with it there s always going to be someone who will dislike you because of it The one on one interviews presented in How It Feels to Have a Gay or Lesbian Parent document first hand the effects of homophobia on family life Children struggle with the choice between living in a closet shamed by peers and family members or dealing with discrimination as a parent s sexual orientation is used against them Taken together these stories make a statement for acceptance understanding and tolerance as children do their best to make the transition from a traditional family to a nontraditional lifestyle My mom is a normal person just like everyone else The only thing that s different about her is that she s gay and if you can t deal with it you re just going to have to live with it How It Feels to Have a Gay or Lesbian Parent A Book by Kids for Kids of All Ages offers comfort and support to children from those who share their journey The book is a valuable aid for practitioners working with children of GLBT parents and an educational tool for GLBT adults considering children

The Gay Baby Boom Suzanne Johnson,Elizabeth O'Connor,2002-03-01 The gay and lesbian community is experiencing a baby boom Advances in gay rights coupled with increased availability of alternative reproduction techniques have led to an unprecedented number of openly gay and lesbian parents Estimates are that between 6 and 14 million children in the United States are being raised by at least one parent who is gay Yet very little is known about how gay or lesbian headed families function or whether they differ in any relevant ways from families headed by straight parents Written by two developmental psychologists The Gay Baby Boom reports the findings of The Gay and Lesbian Family Study the largest national assessment of gay and lesbian headed families By asking participants detailed questions about the way they parent the authors are able to describe for the first time exactly what takes place within gay and lesbian headed families across the county Traditional research has tended to assume that there is something uniquely different and potentially psychologically damaging about children being raised by gays The authors draw on their data to show these fears unfounded
