language English abstract Concerning the topic of masculinity the first and maybe the most important question is What is masculinity Defined as the quality of being masculine 1 which means having the qualities or appearance considered to be typical of men connected with or like men 2 the term Black Masculinity refers to the qualities of being masculine and black This definition sounds very logical at first sight Moreover when using this term as normative standard the asymmetrical pendant to the more critically investigated femininity 3 and therefore inventing fictional characters enacting or rejecting stereotypes of masculinity it serves a certain order and makes life and abstract understanding easier But if you reflect on the analysis of masculinity which should not be limited to typical male behaviour and sexuality and which should not only be a matter of individual identity but the organisation and representation of the social these formal definitions are too easy Therefore masculinity in a wider sense is understood as a form of identity of men that cannot be isolated from other dimensions of identity Social conditions of manliness and equality are always connected with issues of race class gender and sexuality Especially within the ideological structure of a patriarchal culture heterosexual masculinity has traditionally been structured as the normative gender Therefore patriarchal culture has a simple interpretation of gay men They lack masculinity 4 which is reinforced by the statement If someone is attracted to the masculine then that person must be feminine 5 These beliefs create a dilemma about masculinity for men who are attracted to other men that means homosexual white men but also black men if you think of living in a multicultural society and consider the colour of skin 1 Sally Wehmeier A S Hornby 1999 Oxford Advanced Learner's Dictionary Sixth Edition Oxford University Press p 786 2 Ibid 3 Maurice Berger
