Filmmaking in France since 2000 Will Higbee, 2013-07-31 Since the early 1980s filmmakers of Maghrebi origin have made a key contribution to the representation of issues such as immigration integration and national identity in French cinema. However, they have done so mostly from a position on the margins of the industry. In contrast, since the early 2000s, Maghrebi, French, and North African emigre filmmakers have occupied an increasingly prominent position in on both sides of the camera, announcing their presence on French screens in a wider range of genres and styles than ever before. This greater prominence and move to the mainstream has not automatically meant that these films have lost any of the social or political relevance of Beur cinema of the 1980s or the banlieue film of the 1990s. Indeed, in the 2000s, these films have increasingly questioned the boundaries between national, transnational, and diasporic cinema, whilst simultaneously demanding either implicitly or explicitly a reconsideration of the very difference that has traditionally been seen as a barrier to the successful integration of North African immigrants and their descendants into French society. Through a detailed study of this transformative decade for Maghrebi, French, and North African emigre filmmaking in France, this book argues for the emergence of a Post-Beur cinema in the 2000s that is simultaneously global and local in its outlook. An absorbing introduction to this key development in contemporary French cinema, Post-Beur Cinema is essential reading for students and scholars in Film Studies, French Studies, and Diaspora Studies.

Multicultural Britain Kieran Connell, 2024-08-15 Shortlisted for the Wolfson History Prize 2025. Between the end of the Second World War and the early twenty-first century, Britain became multicultural. This vivid book tells that remarkable story. Kieran Connell, an historian of Irish and German heritage who grew up in Balsall Heath, inner-city Birmingham, takes readers into multicultural communities across Britain at key moments in their development. Journeying far beyond London, Multicultural Britain explores the messy contradictions of the country's transition into today's diverse society. It reveals the ordinary people who have forged Britain's multiculturalism, skewers public leaders from Enoch Powell to Harold Wilson to Margaret Thatcher who have too often weaponised race for their own political ends, and shines a light on the shifting nature of British racism, revealing its enduring day-to-day impact on ethnic minority groups. Between postcolonial reckonings and immigration anxieties, how people live together in Brexit Britain remains an urgent question for our time. Connell's fresh, thought-provoking book unveils British multiculturalism not as a problematic idea but as a rich and complex lived reality.

South Asian Atlantic Literature, 1970-2010 Ruth Maxey, 2011-11-30 A major interpretation of recent South Asian diasporic writing and cinema in specifically transatlantic terms. Ruth Maxey provides readings of canonical and less well-known South Asian, American, and British Asian texts and key cinematic works. She explores the formal and thematic tendencies of the works, relating them to gender, politics, the marketplace, and issues of literary value and historical change. While engaging with established debates, Maxey also intervenes in new ways in transatlantic postcolonial literary and Asian American cultural studies. Key features: Looks at writers including Jhumpa Lahiri, Bharati Mukherjee, Mohsin Hamid, Hanif Kureishi, Monica Ali, and Nadeem Aslam. Explores
