Emperor Jones:

The Emperor Jones Eugene O'Neill, 1921      The Emperor Jones Eugene O'Neill, 1934      Racing the Great White Way Katie N. Johnson, 2023-07-19 The early drama of Eugene O'Neill with its emphasis on racial themes and conflicts opened up extraordinary opportunities for Black performers to challenge racist structures in modern theater and cinema. By adapting O'Neill's dramatic writing, changing scripts to omit offensive epithets, inserting African American music and dance, or including citations of Black internationalist theater artists of color, have used O'Neill's texts to raze barriers in American and transatlantic theater. Challenging the widely accepted idea that Broadway was the white-hot creative engine of U.S. theater during the early 20th century, author Katie N. Johnson reveals a far more complex system of exchanges between the Broadway establishment and a vibrant Black theater scene in New York and beyond to chart a new history of American and transnational theater. In spite of their dichotomous and at times problematic representation of Blackness, O'Neill's plays such as The Emperor Jones and All God's Chillun Got Wings make ideal case studies because of the way these works stimulated traffic between Broadway and Harlem and between white and Black America. These investigations of O'Neill and Broadway productions are enriched by the vibrant transnational exchange found in early to mid-20th century artistic production. Anchored in archival research, Racing the Great White Way recovers not only vital lost performance histories but also the layered contexts for performing bodies across the Black Atlantic and the Circum Atlantic.      "Emperor Jones" by Eugene O'Neill [Playbill]. Negro Theatre Guild, 1946      Encyclopedia of the Harlem Renaissance: A-J Cary D. Wintz, Paul Finkelman, 2004 An interdisciplinary look at the Harlem Renaissance; it includes essays on the principal participants, those who defined the political, intellectual, and cultural milieu in which the Renaissance existed, on important events and places.

Dudley Murphy, Hollywood Wild Card Susan Delson, 2006 Follows the life of Hollywood's first independent filmmaker known for The Emperor Jones and Ballet mécanique.      Jean Toomer Jean Toomer, 1996 This book is what scholars of American and African American literature have needed for quite some time. Robert B. Jones's selection of materials is excellent, and his expert ordering reveals the breadth and evolution of Jean Toomer's thought over several decades. This collection will considerably enlarge our understanding of the author, whose reputation remains tied in large part to Cane. Rudolph P. Byrd, Emory University. Like the intertextual relations between Black-authored and white-authored literary works, the relationships between Black and White intellectuals in New York in the 1910s and 1920s, both personally and intellectually, were far more fluid and complex and productive than American scholarship has acknowledged. The essays collected here enhance such acknowledgment considerably, with implications for the transformation of our understanding of American modernism as well as the interracial cultural history of the United States. Certainly, such was Robert Jones's large and generous aim in creating this important book. Foreword by Georg Hutchinson.      Hollywood on the Hudson Richard Koszarski, 2008 Thomas Edison invented his motion picture system in New Jersey in the 1890s and within a few years most American filmmakers could be found within a mile or two of the Hudson River They planted themselves here because they needed the artistic and entrepreneurial energy that D W Griffith realized New York had in abundance But as the going rate for land and labor skyrocketed and their business grew more industrialized most of them moved out The way most historians explain it the role of New York in the development of American film ends here In Hollywood on the Hudson Richard Koszarski rewrites an important part of the history of American cinema During the 1920s and 1930s film industry executives had centralized the mass production of feature pictures in a series of gigantic film factories scattered across Southern California while maintaining New York as the economic and administrative center But as Koszarski reveals many writers producers and directors also continued to work here especially if their independent vision was too big for the Hollywood production line East Coast filmmakers Oscar Micheaux Rudolph Valentino Ben Hecht Charles MacArthur Paul Robeson Gloria Swanson Max Fleischer and others quietly created a studio system without back lots long term contracts or seasonal production slates They substituted newsreel photography for Hollywood glamour targeted niche audiences instead of middle American families ignored accepted dramatic conventions and pushed the boundaries of motion picture censorship Rebellious and unconventional they saw the New York studios as laboratories not factories and used them to pioneer the development of new technologies from talkies to television new genres new talent and ultimately an entirely new vision of commercial cinema
