Field Testing Genetically Modified Organisms National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Commission on Life Sciences, Committee on Scientific Evaluation of the Introduction of Genetically Modified Microorganisms and Plants into the Environment, 1989-02-01 Potential benefits from the use of genetically modified organisms such as bacteria that biodegrade environmental pollutants are enormous To minimize the risks of releasing such organisms into the environment regulators are working to develop rational safeguards This volume provides a comprehensive examination of the issues surrounding testing these organisms in the laboratory or the field and a practical framework for making decisions about organism release Beginning with a discussion of classical versus molecular techniques for genetic alteration the volume is divided into major sections for plants and microorganisms and covers the characteristics of altered organisms past experience with releases and such specific issues as whether plant introductions could promote weediness The executive summary presents major conclusions and outlines the recommended decision making framework Field Testing Genetically Modified Organisms, 1989 Proceedings Sally L. McCammon, Sue G. Dwyer, 1990 Recombinant DNA Technical Bulletin, 1989 Forestry Research National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Commission on Life Sciences, Committee on Forestry Research, 1990-02-01 Forests are valuable in our daily lives crucial to our nation's economy and integral to the long term health of the environment Yet forestry research has been critically underfunded and the data generated under current research programs is not enough to meet the diverse needs of our society Forestry Research provides a research agenda that should yield the information we need to develop responsible policies for forest use and management In this consensus of forestry experts the volume explores The diverse and competing concerns of the timber industry recreational interests and wildlife and environmental organizations The gap between our need for information and the current output of the forestry research program Areas of research requiring attention biology of forest organisms ecosystem function and management human forest interactions wood as raw material and international trade and competition Forestry Research is an important book of special interest to federal and state policymakers involved in forestry issues research managers researchers faculty and students in the field Genetically Modified Crops Keith T. Atherton, 2002-09-12 Biotechnology has a significant impact on both medicine and agriculture With the introduction of new products to the marketplace the safety of those products is of paramount importance New safety evaluation strategies are now employed to ensure that the consumer is adequately protected This book describes those strategies and addresses some of NAFTA and Sustainable Development Hoi L. Kong, L. Kinvin Wroth, 2015-08-07 This book assesses the current state of environmental protection under the North American Free Trade Agreement NAFTA Authors from all three member nations Canada Mexico and the United States analyze the agreements impact on such issues as bioengineered crops water policy climate change and indigenous rights EU Policy-Making on GMOs Mihalis Kritikos, 2017-11-02 This book examines the development and implementation of the EU's legislative framework on the commercial release of GMO products as a case study of social regulation operating within a predominantly technical framework. The analysis and findings are based on an extensive documentary analysis and interviews with regulators, risk assessors, public interest groups and biotechnology experts at the national and European levels. It argues that in the case of the EU biotechnology framework, the particular institutional settings created for the formulation and interpretation of its provisions have been of decisive importance in elaborating a proceduralised science based prior authorization scheme as the preferred framework for granting commercial permits. This interdisciplinary work will appeal to EU lawyers, decision makers and risk managers as well as academics working in the fields of EU studies, politics, law, risk governance, sociology of science, risk and technology assessment. The book is based on a PhD thesis that was awarded with the 2008 UACES Prize for the Best Thesis in European Studies in Europe and with the EPEES 1st Prize for the Best Thesis written by a Greek Researcher between 2004 and 2008.

Food Biotechnology in Ethical Perspective Paul B. Thompson, 2007-05-05. Agrifood biotechnology, the genetic transformation of plants and animals through recombinant means, has created controversy in the food system for more than twenty years. This thoroughly revised and amended edition of Paul B. Thompson's path breaking study of ethical and philosophical issues raised by this technology up to date. The original 1997 edition was the first book length treatment by a philosopher to focus on food and agricultural biotechnology covering ethical issues associated with risk assessment, labelling, animal transformation, patents and the impact of biotechnology on traditional farming communities in both the developed and developing world. The new edition reflects lessons from the hotly contested debates over those issues in the intervening decade and includes wholly new discussions on ethical issues associated with livestock cloning, the Precautionary Principle and the transatlantic debate between United States and European perspectives on biotechnology. Thompson's unique and insightful approach to addressing the risks and questions of public acceptability associated with novel technology stands as a model for anyone interested in technological innovation and social change. The book should be of interest to scholars and citizens interested in the Internet or nanotechnology while it remains an essential resource for understanding the twists and turns of debate over the role of molecular genetics in the transformation of the global food system.
