Educating The Under Fives:

Teaching the Child Under Six James L. Hymes, 1981 Transforming Nursery Education Peter Moss, Helen Penn, 1996-03-28 This is an important publication which I urge colleagues to read and to consider carefully all the implications Early Years This provocative analysis with its clear examples is worth reading for its fresh look at where we could be headed come the 21st century Nursery Equipment Early childhood services in the UK have been badly neglected The consequences are serious chronic underfunding and increasing fragmentation most staff poorly paid and trained access often a matter of potluck and money low aspirations and even lower expectations Increasingly young children are seen as important for what they may become rather than for what they are and the case for early childhood services is made out in terms of later performance in school and adult life rather than the needs and rights of young children themselves No current political vision redresses this undervaluing of early childhood or addresses the parlous state our early childhood services are in Drawing on the rich early childhood tradition in the UK going back to Robert Owen and giving examples from current practice Transforming Nursery Education offers a critique of the status quo a vision of early childhood services and practical strategies for achieving it The book covers a wide range of day care and education services and critical issues such as staffing funding curriculum models of provision and the age at which children start compulsory schooling Within this broad approach the book focuses in particular on the history and current practice of nursery education It argues that the present narrow approach to nursery education is neither appropriate to the needs of today nor inevitable It answers a critical question how can nursery education be transformed to play a leading role in the comprehensive integrated and coherent early childhood service that today's families really need On the Necessity of Providing of the Better Education of Children with Defective Hearing in the Public Schools Sexton, 1884 The Impact of the National Curriculum on the Teaching of Five-Year-Olds Theo Cox, Susan Sanders, 2018-10-03 Originally published in 1994 One of the most neglected areas of research and thus writing is the world of the infant school child Those who know it best are teachers who tend not to write Those who write most are academics and even they venture rarely into this area This book is based on research funded by the University of Wales A number of teachers in a Welsh LEA were interviewed over time as the National Curriculum was being introduced up to Key Stage 1 The structured interviews covered a wide range of topics related to the anticipated and actual efforts of the National Curriculum at this key stage including curriculum planning assessment teaching methods and organization Teachers attitudes to the curriculum were explored through a short attitude test The resulting data provides in depth the first such examination and is a resource not only in itself but for all those researchers on change agents and restructuring

Kids First David Kirp, 2011-03-01 While parents work longer hours for less and the costs of childcare healthcare and college skyrocket the share of the U S budget spent on kids has fallen 22 percent since 1960 In Kids First policy expert David Kirp issues a visionary call for renewing revamping and reenergizing public support for children and offers inspiring on the
