Educational Countercultures Confrontations Images Vision:

Discourses of Education in the Age of New Imperialism Jerome Satterthwaite, Elizabeth Atkinson, 2005 As educators we are all in William Pinar's words behind enemy lines in a field which despite our continued bids for autonomy is increasingly hijacked by globalising political forces This book offers modes of resistance which are startling unsettling and challenging It will be of great interest to students tutors and researchers in education policy studies and related fields and to those who are involved in training or becoming the educators of the future Teacher Education Ulas Kayapinar, 2021-09-22 Teacher education is an increasingly complex and challenging area of research and practice ultimately vital for generations This book imparts insight and directions for both research and practice in teacher education Chapters cover a variety of topics such as collaborative teaching experiences creativity education in curricula innovations in science and technology in education new techniques for learning and teaching subjects such as entrepreneurship history mathematics science technology heritage and early childhood education and using online social platforms in education Researching Education, 2019-02-18 This book is aimed at researchers in education who are looking for the take up of bold visions in educational research through visual digital and spatial knowing Drawing from research conducted by experienced researchers and graduate students in Australia through visual methods the book presents work that is at the forefront of working with innovative qualitative research methodologies theoretically and practically The book shows the possibilities problems and researcher responses to working with image through complex theoretical territory such as Actor network theory Deleuzian theory feminist and poststructuralist methods positioning theory and narrative theory All chapters have in common a response to issues that broadly can be defined as the issues of education that prove to be deep seated and troubling and show a concern for critically orientated scholarship The book moves across the stages of education from early childhood middle years secondary schooling to higher education A provocative and lively introduction frames the field of visual methods for education researchers With visuality in mind issues such as researcher and participant identity what is contributed or lost when we democratise the research process and ethical issues of working globally are discussed By getting underneath the cover story of educational research the contribution is an accessible and concise account of educational research that confronts current issues of curriculum and pedagogy and is useful for those new to qualitative research and visual methods

Educational Counter-cultures Jerome Satterthwaite, Elizabeth Atkinson, Wendy Martin, 2004 Drawing on rich cross cultural perspectives from Pakistan Israel Canada the US and the UK the authors challenge readers to envision new ways of thinking for education ways which draw on imagination the arts and the collective experience of subjugated cultures and ways of knowing Medical Humanities and Medical Education Alan Bleakley, 2015-03-02 The field of the medical humanities is developing rapidly however there has also been parallel concern from sceptics that the value of medical humanities educational interventions should be open to scrutiny and evidence Just what is the impact of medical humanities provision upon the education of medical students In an era of limited resources is such provision worth the investment This innovative text addresses these pressing questions describes the contemporary territory comprising the medical humanities in medical education and explains how this field may be developed as a key medical education component for the future Bleakley a driving force of the international movement to establish the medical humanities as a core and integrated provision in the medical curriculum proposes a model that requires collaboration between patients artists humanities scholars doctors and other health professionals in developing medical students sensibility clinical acumen based on close noticing and sensitivity ethical professional and humane practice In particular this text focuses upon how medical humanities input into the curriculum can help to shape the identities of medical students as future doctors who are humane caring expressive and creative whose work will be technically sound but considerably enhanced by their abilities to communicate well with patients and colleagues to empathise to be adaptive and innovative and to act as medical citizens in shaping a future medical culture as a model democracy where social justice is a key aspect of medicine Making sense of the new wave of medical humanities in medical education scholarship that calls for a critical medical humanities Medical Humanities and Medical Education incorporates a range of case studies and illustrative and practical examples to aid integrating medical humanities into the medical curriculum It will be important reading for medical educators and others working with the medical education community and all those interested in the medical humanities

Medical Education for the Future Alan Bleakley, John Bligh, Julie Browne, 2011-02-21 The purpose of medical education is to benefit patients by improving the work of doctors Patient centeredness is a centuries old concept in medicine but there is still a long way to go before medical education can truly be said to be patient centered Ensuring the centrality of the patient is a particular challenge during medical education when students are still forming an identity as trainee doctors and conservative attitudes towards medicine and education are common amongst medical teachers making it hard to bring about improvements How can teachers policy makers researchers and doctors bring about lasting change that will restore the patient to the heart of medical education The authors experienced medical educators explore the role of the patient in medical education in terms of identity power and location Using innovative political philosophical cultural and literary critical frameworks that have previously never been applied so consistently to the field the authors provide a fundamental reconceptualisation of medical teaching and learning with an emphasis upon learning at the bedside and in the clinic They offer a wealth of practical and conceptual insights into the three way relationship between patients students and teachers setting out a radical and exciting approach to a medical education for the future The authors provide us with a masterful reconceptualization of medical education that challenges traditional notions about teaching and learning The book critiques current practices and offers new approaches to medical education based upon sociocultural research and theory This thought provoking narrative advances the case for reform and is a must read for anyone involved in medical education David M Irby PhD Vice Dean for Education University of California San Francisco School of Medicine and co author of Educating Physicians A Call for Reform of Medical School and Residency This book is a truly visionary contribution to the Flexner centenary It is compulsory reading for the medical educationalist with a serious concern for the future and for the welfare of patients and learners in the here and now Professor Tim Dornan University of Manchester Medical School and Maastricht University Graduate School of Health Professions Education

Education, Globalization, and Social Change Hugh Lauder, 2006 Education is seen as central to economic competitiveness the reduction of poverty and inequality and environmental sustainability The editors have selected key writings that examine the social and economic limits and possibilities of education in addressing these fundamental problems This new reader establishes the field of sociology of education with a particular focus on papers that analyse the nature and extent of globalization in education A general introduction presents the key concepts in the sociology of education and outlines the major theories and debates especially in relation to globalization Each section is accompanied by a part opener explaining and contextualizing the readings within a larger educational and sociological context
