Environmental Choice, Human Behavior, and Residential Satisfaction William Michelson, 1977      Environmental Choice, Human Behavior, and Residential Satisfaction William M. Michelson, 1977      Housing and Planning References, 1978      Human Behavior and Environment: Home environments Irwin Altman, 1976      Home Environments Irwin Altman, Carol M. Werner, 2013-06-29 The present volume in the series focuses on homes residences and dwellings Although many fields have had a long standing interest in different aspects of home environments the topic has recently come to the forefront in the interdisciplinary environment and behavior field Researchers and theorists from many disciplines have begun to meet regularly share ideas and perspectives and move the investigation of psychological social and behavioral aspects of home environments to the central arena of environment and behavior studies This volume representative though not comprehensive attempts to provide a sampling of contemporary perspectives on the study of home environments As in previous volumes the authors are drawn from a variety of disciplines including environmental design fields of architecture and planning and from the social science fields of psychology sociology anthropology and history This diversity of authors and perspectives makes salient the principle that the study of homes in relation to behavior requires the contributions of many disciplines Moreover the chapters in this volume reflect an array of research and theoretical view points different scales of home environments e.g. objects and areas the home as a whole the home as embedded in neighborhood and communities etc design and policy issues and necessarily a comparative and cross cultural perspective Home environments are at the core of human life in most cultures and it is hoped that the contributions to this volume display the excitement potential and importance of research and theory on homes      Building Evaluation Wolfgang F.E. Preiser, 1989-09-30 Based on the Symposium on Advances in Building Evaluation Knowledge methods and Applications held as part of the Tenth Biannual Conference of the International Association for the Study of People and Their Physical Surroundings July 5-8 1988 in Delft The Netherlands      Interpreting the City Truman Asa Hartshorn, 1992-04-16 The Second Edition has been rewritten to provide additional coverage of topics such as urban development and third world cities as well as social issues including homelessness jobs housing mismatch and transportation disadvantages It has also been updated with 1990 Census data      Human Behavior and Environment: Environment and behavior studies Irwin Altman, 1976      Theorizing Built Form and Culture Kapila D. Silva, Nisha A. Fernando, 2024-03-08 In this collection of essays Theorizing Built Form and Culture The Legacy of Amos Rapoport a felicitation volume to celebrate the significance of Professor Amos Rapoport's lifelong scholarship scholars from around the world discuss the analytical relevance expansion and continuing application of these contributions in developing an advanced understanding of mutual relationships between people and built environments across cultures Professor Amos Rapoport has espoused an intellectual and theoretical legacy on environmental design scholarship that explains how cultural factors play a significant role in the ways people create and use environments as well as the way environments in turn influence people's behavior. This volume presents a hitherto not seen unique and singular work that simultaneously articulates a cohesive framework of Rapoport's architectural theories and demonstrates how that theoretical approach be used in architectural inquiry education and practice across environmental scales types and cultural contexts. It also acknowledges for the very first time how this theoretical legacy has pioneered the decolonizing of the Eurocentric approaches to architectural inquiry and has thus privileged an inclusive cross cultural perspective that laid the groundwork to understand and analyze non Western design traditions. The book thus reflects a wide range of cross cultural and cross contextual range to which Professor Rapoport's theories apply a general notion of theoretical validity he always advocated for in his own writings. The volume is a paramount source for scholars and students of architecture who are interested in understanding how culture mediates the creation use and preservation of the built environment.

Home Environments Irwin Altman, Carol M. Werner, 1985-09-30 The present volume in the series focuses on homes residences and dwellings. Although many fields have had a long standing interest in different aspects of home environments the topic has recently come to the forefront in the interdisciplinary environment and behavior field. Researchers and theorists from many disciplines have begun to meet regularly share ideas and perspectives and move the investigation of psychological social and behavioral aspects of home environments to the central arena of environment and behavior studies. This volume representative though not comprehensive attempts to provide a sampling of contemporary perspectives on the study of home environments. As in previous volumes the authors are drawn from a variety of disciplines including environmental design fields of architecture and planning and from the social science fields of psychology sociology anthropology and history. This diversity of authors and perspectives makes salient the principle that the study of homes in relation to behavior requires the contributions of many disciplines. Moreover the chapters in this volume reflect an array of research and theoretical viewpoints different scales of home environments e.g. objects and areas the home as a whole the home as embedded in neighborhood and communities etc design and policy issues and necessarily a comparative and cross cultural perspective. Home environments are at the core of human life in most cultures and it is hoped that the contributions to this volume display the excitement potential and importance of research and theory on homes.
