The Archaeology of Mediterranean Landscapes: Environmental reconstruction in Mediterranean landscape archaeology, 1999 The Archaeology of Mediterranean Landscapes Kevin Walsh, 2014 This volume presents a comprehensive review of palaeoenvironmental evidence and its incorporation with landscape archaeology from across the Mediterranean A fundamental aim of this book is to bridge the intellectual and methodological gaps between those with a background in archaeology and ancient history and those who work in the palaeoenvironmental sciences The aim of this volume is twofold first to provide archaeologists and landscape historians with a comprehensive overview of recent palaeoenvironmental research across the Mediterranean and second to consider ways in which this type of research can be integrated with what might be considered mainstream or cultural archaeology This volume takes a thematic approach assessing the ways in which environmental evidence is employed in different landscape types from coastal zones via rivers and wetlands to islands and mountainous areas This volume also presents analyses of how people have interacted with soils and vegetation and revisits the key questions of human culpability in the creation of so called degraded landscapes in the Mediterranean It covers chronological periods from the Early Neolithic to the end of the Roman period Alluvial Archaeology in Europe Andrew J. Howard, M.G. Macklin, D.G. Passmore, 2003-01-01 This book documents and assesses over ten years of research in the field bringing together expertise and knowledge from the disciplines of archaeology and geomorphology and highlighting important recent advances discoveries and new directions Reflecting the wide scope of current research in this area the book contains over twenty papers focusing on various aspects of alluvial archaeology from the methodology of dating prospecting excavating etc to previously under analysed geographical areas such as intertidal wetlands Environment and Society in Byzantium, 650-1150 Alexander Olson, 2020-11-16

This book illuminates Byzantines relationship with woodland between the seventh and twelfth centuries Using the oak and the olive as objects of study this work explores shifting economic strategies environmental change and the transformation of material culture throughout the middle Byzantine period Drawing from texts environmental data and archaeological surveys this book demonstrates that woodland s makeup was altered after Byzantium s seventh century metamorphosis and that people interacted in new ways with this re worked ecology Oak obtained prominence after late antiquity illustrating the shift from that earlier era s intensive agriculture to a more sylvan middle Byzantine economy Meanwhile the olive faded into the background re emerging in the eleventh and twelfth centuries thanks to the initiative of people adapting yet again to newly changed political and economic circumstances This book therefore shows that Byzantines relationship with their ecology was far from static and that Byzantines decisions had environmental impacts

A Companion to Global Environmental History J. R. McNeill, Erin Stewart Mauldin, 2015-05-04 The Companion to Global Environmental History offers multiple points of entry into the history and historiography of this dynamic and fast growing field to provide an essential road map to past developments current controversies and future developments for specialists and newcomers alike Combines temporal geographic thematic and contextual approaches from prehistory to the present day Explores environmental thought and action around the world to give readers a cultural intellectual and political context for engagement with the environment in modern times Brings together environmental historians from around the world including scholars from South Africa Brazil Germany and China

The Roman Agricultural Economy Alan Bowman, Andrew Wilson, 2013-05-30 This volume is a collection of studies which presents new analyses of the nature and scale of Roman agriculture in the Mediterranean world from c 100 BC to AD 350 It provides a clear understanding of the fundamental features of Roman agricultural production through studying the documentary and archaeological evidence for the modes of land exploitation and the organisation development of and investment in this sector of the Roman economy Moving substantially beyond the simple assumption that agriculture was the dominant sector of the ancient economy the volume explores what was special and distinctive about it especially with a view of its development and integration during a period of expansion and prosperity across the empire The papers exemplify a range of possible approaches to studying and within limits quantifying aspects of Roman agricultural production marshalling a large quantity of evidence chiefly archaeological and papyrological to address important questions of the organisation and performance of this sector in the Roman world

Archaeomalacology D. Bar-Yosef, 2005-10-14 Molluscs are the most common invertebrate remains found at archaeological sites but archaeomalacology the study of molluscs in archaeological contexts is a relatively new archaeological discipline and the field of zooarchaeology is seen by many as one mainly focused on the remains of vertebrates The papers in this volume hope to redress this balance bringing molluscan studies into mainstream zooarchaeological and archaeological debate and resulting in a monograph with a truly international flavour

The Environmental Archaeology of Industry Peter Murphy, Patricia E. J. Wiltshire, 2003 The environmental impact of industry is often profound and far reaching and has long been present in the cultural landscape but research into the nature and relative importance of industrial activity has been somewhat neglected by environmental archaeologists This volume presents eighteen papers deriving from a conference of the Association for Environmental Archaeology they aim to bridge the gap between environmental and industrial archaeology The papers address several major issues including the effects of mining and smelting on sedimentation and vegetation in river catchments the environmental impact of industries which are based on high temperature processes and require reliable sources of fuel such as metallurgy pottery glass and lime making the environmental impact of industrial processes based on biological raw materials such as horn bone hides and shell and the effects of industry on human health Contents Setting the Scene F Chambers Reconstructing the environmental impact of past metallurgical activities P D Marshall An environmental approach to the archaeology of tin mining on Dartmoor V Thorndycraft D Pirriest and A G Brown Wood based industrial fuels and their environmental impact in lowland Britain R Gale The iron production industry and its extensive demand upon woodland resources A case study from Creeton Quarry Lincolnshire J Cowgill Tanning and horn working at late and post mediaeval Bruges A Ervynck B Hillewaert A Maes and M van Strydonck Tawyers tanners horn trade and the mystery of the missing goat U Albarella Choice and use of shells for artefacts at Roman sites in the Eastern Desert of Egypt S Hamilton Dyer Industrial activities some suggested microstratigraphic signatures R Macphail Deriving information efficiently from surveys of artefact distribution R S Shiel and S B Mohamed Can we identify biological indicator groups for craft industry and other activities A Hall and H Kenward Archaeological arthropod faunas as indicators of past industrial activities J Schelvis Charred mollusc shells as indicators of industrial activities P Murphy Saxon flax retting in river channels and the apparent lack of water pollution M Robinson The rise and fall of Rickets in England S A Mays A comparison of health in past rural urban and industrial England M Lewis Determining occupation from skeletal remains is it possible T Waldron and W Birch The disposal and decomposition of human and animal remains D W Hopkins and P E J Wiltshire Archaeology Kevin Greene, Tom Moore, 2010-06-17 This book details modern archaeologists methods of studying the past describing basic practical procedures as well as complex scientific techniques used in analysis It also examines traditional methodology fieldwork and excavation Jebel Bishri in Focus Sanna Aro-Valjus, Markus Törmä, 2011 This book presents the work of the Finnish project SYGIS on Jebel Bishri a mountainous region in Central Syria The main focus of this archaeological project was to unambiguously locate discovered sites on the Earth s surface in order to provide a starting point for the recording and creation of data to help with the cultural heritage management of Syria as well as to help prevent looting and to aid in the preservation of cultural remains in this vulnerable area The sites encountered during this project covered a time span of nearly 0 5 million years and in a series of chronological chapters the development of human cultures in the Jebel Bishri region over the course of time is explored The interaction of people between different environmental zones and the cultural longue durée emerge as themes of particular importance

New Developments in Italian Landscape Archaeology P. A. J. Attema, 2002 Proceedings of a three day conference held at the University of Groningen April 13 15 2000

Landscapes from Antiquity Simon Stoddart, 2001 This is the first volume of an exciting new project Antiquity drawing on its 75 year tradition of publishing articles of enduring value has brought together twenty four classic papers on a central archaeological theme The papers have been selected to represent ancient and modern landscape approaches organized into thematic sections Early studies of Fox and Curwen aerial photography of Bradford Crawford and St Joseph survey method integrated regional landscapes physical industrial contested and experienced landscapes Each section is introduced with an overview and personal perspective by Simon Stoddart the current editor of Antiquity As he points out in the introduction the editor of Antiquity has always drawn on the most exciting and relevant of current research Consequently the frequency and content of landscape in Antiquity provides illuminating commentary on the definition and prominence of the theme landscape in archaeological research

Thomas, 2007 These two volumes report on five season s excavation and four millennia of occupation at Kilise Tepe from the Early Bronze Age through the rise and fall of the Hittite Empire and into the Byzantine era when the mound was crowned by a substantial church The site takes its importance from its position guarding the G ksu Valley one of the two main routes from the interior of Anatolia to the Mediterranean opposite Cyprus so that it gives a record of relations between the interior and the seaboard Of particular interest are the sequence from the Hittite Empire through the end of the Bronze Age and into the classical world and the Byzantine levels associated with the church The multi authored report gives a full account of the stratigraphy and architecture the ceramics and other artefacts and various environmental studies Palaeodiet in the Aegean Archaeological Institute of America. General Meeting, 2000 This volume of papers is the result of the Annual Meetings of the Archaeological Institue of America conference Washington 2003 The aim was to present the latest research in the field of palaeodietry studies in the Aegean The theme od palaeodiet was chosen because it is arguably the most important field of study concerning the Aegean which complements archaeological fieldwork Food and drink are just as essential for man s survival as shelter What the ancient peoples in the Aegean ate is as important as the buildings they built or the artifacts they produced The volume discusses how religion social stucture and ethnicity effects diet The book also demonstrates skeletal evidence for nutrition in Mesolithic and Neolithic Greece looking at growth oral health bone composition and pathological changes in bone The book challenges current methodology in recovering bio archaeological material whilst offering practical methods for gathering palaeodietary data American Journal of Archaeology ,2004
