Public Parks, Private Gardens Colta Ives, 2018-03-05 The spectacular transformation of Paris during the 19th century into a city of tree lined boulevards and public parks both redesigned the capital and inspired the era's great Impressionist artists. The renewed landscape gave crowded displaced urban dwellers green spaces to enjoy while suburbanites and country dwellers began cultivating their own flower gardens. As public engagement with gardening grew, artists increasingly featured flowers and parks in their work. Public Parks Private Gardens includes masterworks by artists such as Bonnard, Cassatt, Caillebotte, Corot, Daubigny, Manet, Matisse, Monet, and Seurat. Many of these artists were themselves avid gardeners and they painted parks and gardens as the distinctive scenery of contemporary life. Writing from the perspective of both a distinguished art historian and a trained landscape designer, Colta Ives provides new insights not only into these essential works but also into this extraordinarily creative period in France's history.

Walking and the French Romantics Christopher W. Thompson, 2003. Walking and the French Romantics explores for the first time the relationship between walking and Romanticism in France. It maps this relationship as theme and practice, no social history of pedestrian tours in nineteenth-century France having been written. In this connection, the legacy of Rousseau and Senancour proves stronger than has been recognized in spite of the pull of Paris and its legendary urban flaneurs. The author brings out the role of painters and of figures like Nodding, Didier, and Dumas in encouraging writers to go or imagine themselves on the road and shows how and why pedestrian touring became popular with authors in the late 1830s. He discusses the impact of this fashion on major Romantic writers such as Nerval, Sand, and Hugo. Finally, he describes how walking lost its particular cultural connection with Romanticism in the 1840s.
