Lake District has been renowned as an important cultural sacred and literary landscape. It is therefore surprising that there has so far been no in depth critical examination of the Lake District from a tourism and heritage perspective. Bringing together leading writers from a wide range of disciplines this book explores the tourism history and heritage of the Lake District and its construction as a cultural landscape from the mid eighteenth century to the present day. It critically analyses the relationships between history heritage landscape culture and policy that underlie the activities of the National Park Cumbria Tourism and the proposals to recognise the Lake District as a UNESCO World Heritage Site. It examines all aspects of the Lake District's history and identity brings the story up to date and looks at current issues in conservation policy and tourism marketing. In doing so it not only provides a unique and valuable analysis of this region but offers insights into the history of cultural and heritage tourism in Britain and beyond.
