Scientific Inquiry Cycle: Review

Science helps communities solve problems by developing knowledge and creating things that "solve" with a local issue such as water quality or waste management using science to make or improve solutions can have a positive impact. Understanding the problem fully, including its causes and effects, is the first step in finding an effective solution.

Designing solutions requires considering various conditions, such as budget, time, and safety concerns. Community members have a part of a solution might face challenges, however, and it is important to weigh these trade-offs carefully. For example, creating a solution for a water filter may affect its cost and ease of use, which influenced the effectiveness of the solution.

After identifying a solution, determining how it works, what conditions affected it, and any compromises that have already been or should involve on the way. Communication, using design models, and reflecting on the results of the solution are important steps. This process can help identify future needs, locally encourages responsible decision-making, and helps communities thrive.

2. What does determining trade-offs in a solution help with?
 - a. Finding the problem of the solution
 - b. Evaluating the pros and cons of the solution
 - c. Showing how to avoid the problem
 - d. Determining what the solution has no effect
3. Which is an example of a trade-off?
 - a. Finding a solution with no cost
 - b. Finding a solution with no time
 - c. Finding a solution with no safety
 - d. Finding a solution with no resources
4. Why is compromise important?
 - a. To avoid not being in agreement
 - b. To make ideas stronger
 - c. To finish the problem by combining
 - d. To avoid discussing the problem

02. Mark if the statement is True (T) or False (F).

1. A solution made after one failed attempt is always better than the first attempt.

Answer for each question.
