Competition for scarce resources both dollars and soldiers has driven the Army to explore ways to reduce the costs and infrastructure needed to conduct military education and training Resources devoted to military education and training are substantial in FY00 the Active Component training institutions cost the Army 5.7 billion to run and absorbed 44,500 staff and 74,000 trainee man years The Army not only wants to reduce the resources it devotes to the training base it also seeks to improve the performance of its schools To achieve these goals the Army has undertaken various initiatives to restructure and modernize its individual training system including for example establishing the Total Army School System and The Army Distance Learning Program TADLP The task is a tough one improve performance while reducing resources The range of strategies the Army could pursue complicates the task Which of them offer the best chance for success RAND Arroyo Center has examined the Army's recent initiatives along with a number of others and its analysis suggests that four strategies could help the Army achieve its goal 1 Integrate Active AC and Reserve Component RC training institutions 2 Expand the use of educational technologies in Army schools 3 Leverage flexible distance learning technologies and 4 Increase the use of the private sector in Army training 3 figures 10 refs

Models of Teaching Bruce R. Joyce, Marsha Weil, Emily Calhoun, 2009

Models of Teaching by Bruce Joyce, Marsha Weil and Emily Calhoun. With the current emphasis on standards based education teachers everywhere are searching for programs and practices that have the strongest positive effect on student achievement. Since its initial publication in 1972, Models of Teaching, now in its eighth edition, has been considered the classic text in the field. Rationale and research pair with real world examples and applications to provide a strong foundation for new educators. The thoroughly documented research on the various models of teaching and their subsequent positive effects on student success give teachers the tools they need to build strong classrooms that accelerate student learning. Encompassing all of the major psychological and philosophical approaches to teaching and schooling, this new edition of a classic text is at the core of a successful K-12 teacher education program. Look inside this new edition. NEW Evidence based approaches to teaching receive a full explanation in entirely new chapters. New studies on models of teaching give readers the most current picture of education today. All research is refreshed and updated ensuring accuracy and currency. Provides an abundance of both classic and contemporary teaching models classified into four families: Social Information Processing, Personal and Behavioral Systems. Each model includes suggestions for putting the teaching strategies to use in the classroom with applications and through a Summary Chart.
