Scientific Gestalt Ray Edwards, 2012-08-15 Goldstein Koffka Khler Lewin and Wertheimer were scientists who at the turn of the 20th century founded the gestalt approach in psychology Fritz Perls 1944 recognized the potential of the gestalt approach in psychotherapy and founded what is now the widespread system of gestalt therapy Perls understanding of gestalt theory was broadened by Zinker with recognition of stages of development of each gestalt so that what is now termed the Cleveland cycle of experience was recognized Ray Edwards has proposed two innovations First it is shown that completion and grounding of the gestalt cycle of events facilitates reenergization of depressed people Second attention to Gendlins felt senses aided by use of David Groves clean subset of language facilitates freeing post trauma patients from the effect of recurrent nightmares and or flash backs The relevant felt senses are termed proto figures and are usually phenomena like butterflies in the stomach lumps in the stomach or throat and or clouds are hanging over me This present book sets these innovations in full historical context and reveals the gestalt system to be scientific in character Malcolm Parlett Ph D First Editor of the British Gestalt Journal commented on an earlier version of this book This is a thought provoking read a quirky and vividly argued alternative version of gestalt therapy that challenges most of the assumptions of contemporary Gestalt psychotherapy and will send many a reader flying to a computer to type a rebuttal But Ray Edwards book is definitely worth a look at not least for its acerbic criticisms and references to our past traditions I recommend the self published manuscript by an impressive maverick octagenarian gestalt thinker with strong opinions complete with its copious spelling errors and other forgiveable self indulgences
