Gold Gamble Roberta Martin Starry,1974 Gold Rush Manliness Christopher Herbert,2018-11-13 The mid nineteenth century gold rushes bring to mind raucous mining camps and slapped together cities populated by carousing miners gamblers and prostitutes Yet many of the white men who went to the gold fields were products of the Victorian era educated men who valued morality and order Examining the closely linked gold rushes in California and British Columbia historian Christopher Herbert shows that these men worried about the meaning of their manhood in the near anarchic ethnically mixed societies that grew up around the mines As white gold rushers emigrated west they encountered a wide range of people they considered inferior and potentially dangerous to white dominance including Latin American Chinese and Indigenous peoples The way that white miners interacted with these groups reflected their conceptions of race and morality as well as the distinct political principles and strategies of the US and British colonial governments The white miners were accustomed to white male domination and their anxiety to continue it played a central role in the construction of colonial regimes In addition to renovating traditional understandings of the Pacific Slope gold rushes Herbert argues that historians understanding of white manliness has been too fixated on the eastern United States and Britain In the nineteenth century popular attention largely focused on the West It was in the gold fields and the cities they spawned that new ideas of white manliness emerged prefiguring transformations elsewhere The Chester White Swine Record ,1922 Chester White Swine Record Chester White Swine Record Association,1922 Gold, Gold, in Cariboo!
