

A woman with long blonde hair, wearing a red cap and a black tank top, is seen from behind in a white kayak on a vibrant blue lake. She has her arms raised and is holding a black paddle with white blades. The background features majestic, rocky mountains under a blue sky with scattered white clouds. A thin white diagonal line runs from the top left towards the bottom right of the image.

The Task of the Interpreter Pol Vandavelde,2005-09-30 The Task of the Interpreter offers a new approach to what it means to interpret a text and reconciles the possibility of multiple interpretations with the need to consider the author s intention Vandavelde argues that interpretation is both an act and an event It is an act in that interpreters through the statements they make implicitly commit themselves to justifying their positions if prompted It is an event in that interpreters are situated in a cultural and historical framework and come to a text with questions concerns and methods of which they are not fully conscious These two aspects make interpretation a negotiation of meaning The Task of the Interpreter provides an interdisciplinary investigation of textual interpretation including biblical hermeneutics Gregory the Great s Homilies on Ezekiel translation Homer s The Odyssey and literary fictions Grass s Dog Years and Sabato s On Heroes and Tombs Vandavelde s philosophical discussion will appeal to theorists of both continental and analytical pragmatic traditions
