The Problem of Age, Growth, and Death Charles S. Minot, 2018-03-19 Excerpt from The Problem of Age Growth and Death A Study of Cytomorphosis It is now over a third of a century since we were together in Leipzig as fellow workers in the laboratory of Professor Carl Ludwig on whom we look back as the greatest teacher of the art of scientific research whom we have ever known He was a master of both the two great methods of biological study observation and experiment From him we learned to regard the living organism as an apparatus of which it was necessary to learn both the construction and the working and always to seek the explanation of the working on the basis of the construction Al though we have followed different lines of inquiry the fundamental conceptions taught us by Ludwig have remained dominant I look with admiration upon the number and importance of your scientific achievements The pupil has proved himself worthy of the master and has taken a master s place About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
