Downstream Industrial Biotechnology Michael C. Flickinger, 2013-03-12 DOWNSTREAM INDUSTRIAL BIOTECHNOLOGY An affordable easily accessible desk reference on biomanufacturing focused on downstream recovery and purification Advances in the fundamental knowledge surrounding biotechnology novel materials and advanced engineering approaches continue to be translated into bioprocesses that bring new products to market at a significantly faster pace than most other industries Industrial scale biotechnology and new manufacturing methods are revolutionizing medicine environmental monitoring and remediation consumer products food production agriculture and forestry and continue to be a major area of research The downstream stage in industrial biotechnology refers to recovery isolation and purification of the microbial products from cell debris processing medium and contaminating biomolecules from the upstream process into a finished product such as biopharmaceuticals and vaccines Downstream process design has the greatest impact on overall biomanufacturing cost because not only does the biochemistry of different products e.g. peptides proteins hormones antibiotics and complex antigens dictate different methods for the isolation and purification of these products but contaminating byproducts can also reduce overall process yield and may have serious consequences on clinical safety and efficacy Therefore downstream
